37 Cents to $35,000 But Buy Cautiously Thanks ex-Kaiser A Telescope on a Hill

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

SAN SIMEON, CAL., FEB. 19—If you get a good piece of land and take care of it—anywhere in the march of American progress—that land will take care of you.

For instance: Yesterday Mrs. G. McLeod paid $35,000 for the Bender lot on Ventura boulevard in Los Angeles—quite far out. She probably got a bargain. Eight years ago, the lot sold for $6500. Sixteen years ago, a syndicate "taking a chance on Los Angeles future" bought a lot of land, including that lot, for fifty dollars AN ACRE. In 1887 the same land sold for thirty-seven and a half cents an acre.

But remember, that same land now sold for fifty dollars an acre is not worth ten dollars SEE what you buy, and know for yourself, WHY you buy it, before you invest your money.

And remember that every American community has its great bargains and possibilities. If you cannot make good real estate investments where you are, you will probably make worse investments elsewhere.

The former Kaiser, who must have done some hard thinking in the last few years, tells Sylvester Viereck: "Today the center of gravity which determines world power has shifted to the United States. America is master of the world."

America probably COULD be master of the world. But to desire that mastery would be foolish, to be masters of ourselves, mind our business, develop this country and increase the well being of the average man, is a big enough task.

At present this nation is in a dangerous condition, rich, tempting, like a fat worm lying in the path of stray birds. Every day this nation needs the warning that Solon gave Croesus, displaying proudly his piles of gold. "Croesus, if any one comes, having better iron than you have, he will be master of all that gold."

If any nation comes, having flying machines, which we have not, it will be master of all our gold—for a while at least.

Nevertheless, Mr. ex-Kaiser, we thank you for the compliment, as the colored gentleman said, when asked to change a fifty dollar bill.

W. R. Hearst will build on his 250,000 acre ranch here an astronomical observatory, on a mountain top near the Pacific. It is strange how few of the world's rich men think it worth while to look out, away from this earthly patch of real estate.

FIND 'LOST' HARVARD STUDENT

Lyman Wilson Lewis, Harvard student from Fresno, Cal., who, lovesick for a Western girl, fled the Stillman Hospital at Harvard despite the attempts of nurses to stay him, was located today in the home of the multi-millionaire banker, Ernest B. Dane, at 360 Heath st., Brookline.

It is believed that the California man, who was attending the Harvard graduate school, had become friendly with the son of the president of the Brookline Trust Company, and had either gone to Dane's home or met him on the road.

Word was sent from the Dane house today to the Cambridge police and the Harvard authorities that the student was in good health and be taken care of.

The elder Dane is selectman of Brookline and is widely known for his charities. Every Thanksgiving he gives dinners to 200 of the poor of his town, while his summer estate in New Hampshire is one of the show places of the state.

All night the Cambridge police and groups of Harvard men had sought the California boy, fearing that in his state of mind he might do away with himself.

A fellow student said that he had attended a dinner with Lewis and a friend in Boston, Saturday and that during the meal Lewis jumped from the table with the remark that he was "going to get to Fresno if he had to go through water."

Lewis' companions calmed him and took him to his rooms in Cambridge. Later they took the young

St. Patrick's Day Fetes Barred By Bishop O'Leary

Springfield, Feb. 19—Bishop Thomas M. O'Leary's annual Lenten pastoral letter specifically forbids Catholics from participating in St. Patrick's day festivities.

"He dishonors the patron of a great catholic people who profanes the sanctity of this patronal feast by any indulgence contrary to its spirit," he said.

BURGLARS GET $1000

Week-end cracksmen believed to be experts, gathered $1000 in two safe deposit offices in Somerville.

They entered the Adams Coal Co.'s yard at 277 Beacon st. by forcing a board in the fence on the railroad side, then jimmied the door of the office. They tore off the combination of the safe and took $700 and $100 in checks.

Lieut. Sergt. O'Connell of the Somerville department found the checks discarded in the yard.

Near the men forced a plank in the fence separating the Adams plant from that of J. G. Crowell at 289 Beacon st. Using exactly the same methods they stripped the safe there of $250.

Police believe the same gang robbed the Colbert Hay & Grain Co. two weeks ago, and that they expected to find the payrolls of the companies.

FULLER OFF SLATE OF G. O. P.

Following a visit from Francis Prescott, chairman of the Republican state committee, Governor Fuller today announced that he would not be a candidate for delegate to the Republican national convention in Kansas City.

Prescott's visit was ostensibly to urge the Governor to run. As his reason for declining, Governor Fuller said he had no guarantee that the legislature would have prorogued by June 5, when delegates will be sent for Kansas City, where the convention will be held.

BILLS FOR 2 'NARCOTIC FARMS' IN CONGRESS

By STEPHEN G. PORTER,
Member of Congress From Pennsylvania.

Washington, Feb. 20—I introduced today a bill to establish two United States narcotic farms for the care and treatment of persons now confined in federal prisons who are addicted to the use of habit-forming narcotic drugs.

The bill also provides that addicts who are not federal prisoners may be admitted if facilities are available and permits the States to board addicts who have violated their laws of a federal nature there.

President Coolidge in his message to the Congress of December 6, 1923, said:

"The National Government has never given adequate attention to its prison problems. It ought to provide employment in such forms of production as can be used by the government, though not sold to the public in competition with private business, for all prisoners who can be placed at work and for whom

HEARING THURSDAY ON READING PROBE ORDER

While Governor Fuller today studied the charges brought against Atty.-Gen. Arthur K. Reading in connection with the Income Club line, the House Committee on Rules announced that on Thursday it would hold a hearing on the Reed-Sawyer resolve for legislative investigation of the attorney-general's conduct in office.

Outwardly perturbed by the charges and voicing his disapproval of all officials in public life who use their positions for personal gain, the Governor declared he would sift the accusations thoroughly.

Asked if he had anything further to say, Governor Fuller replied: "I have read Mr. Reading's first statement in reply to the charges, but, rather felt that the attorney-general would want to make a statement under oath."

Reading was at the State House today although a hearing was held in the Supreme Court in New York on the bill to oust him, containing the charges against him.

B. & M. DETECTIVE ENDS HIS LIFE WITH BULLET

Lieutenant of Detectives Arthur [illegible] Ayscongh of the Boston & Maine Railroad force committed suicide today in his home at Forest ave., Wakefield, by shooting himself in the head with a 38-calibre revolver.

He is survived by his widow and four children, and the widow said she believed Ayscongh's act to have been induced by a [illegible] caused by overstudy.

Ayscongh, who was 40 years old, was a student at Northeastern University, taking a course after working hours.

TRIAL IS HALTED, DOCTOR CALLED

On the point of telling of the actual shooting of Grace Mills today, Joseph Foster Buckley, on trial for her murder, collapsed on the witness stand in Middlesex Superior Court at East Cambridge.

The trial was halted. Buckley was carried to an anteroom and a doctor was called. Court officials said he had "gone to pieces." Blankets were sent for and he was wrapped in them.

In the midst of his recital, on which he staked his life, the defendant paled and swayed forward on the witness stand. His attorney rushed up just in time to save him from falling.

Anne Lu was revived with water, and had a rest, he tried to continue his testimony. But he was shaking like a leaf. He could not control himself to his voice and Judge Robinson quickly called on Medical Examiner Thomas F. Gallagher, a government witness, to aid him.

IN COMPLETE COLLAPSE.

Buckley collapsed completely, as he was being helped out of the crowded courtroom by the doctor and court officers.

The jurors were excused and the judge stated that the trial was halted until Buckley recovered.

Previous to collapsing Buckley had testified that during the night of [illegible] he left his car on Mount Auburn st. in the rear of the Mills home and walked to the house. He said he went to the rear door and knocked. Grace Mills met her death, she said, three forenoons later.

SHE HAD LETTER

Buckley testified also that Grace herself produced the notorious letter which ended with her death and which he waved in his face.

Coupled with his dramatic testimony was the reading of letters written by Grace Mills to Buckley.

It was one minute past 12 when he was [illegible] testified Buckley, reaching into his pocket and producing a watch. "I was a minute late and she said if I hadn't known by the way I did I might have thought she was

2 ARE RESCUED IN FIRE NEAR BEACON OIL PLANT

George Wrigley, a retired policeman, and his aged sister, Miss Lottie Wrigley, were carried through flames and smoke to safety when fire partially destroyed the two-story wooden dwelling at 10 and 12 Thorndike st., Everett, today.

Fire apparatus summoned by two alarms, caused fears of a second Beacon Oil disaster, as the scene of the blaze was only two streets from the plant.

Fireman George Hill carried Wrigley from his bed to the street, while Patrolman Jewell Grant was rescuing Wrigley's sister. Three other families in the same building and two in the house at 14 Thorndike st. were forced to flee.

Carl Jewell, on the first floor of the building, discovered the fire. Jewell and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. James Burke and Mr. and Mrs. James Burke and their two children made their way safely from the burning house while the Wrigleys were being carried out.

"I DID NOT MEAN TO SHOOT HER," SAYS BUCKLEY

Following his collapse today, Joseph Foster Buckley resumed testifying after a long delay. He was still in a highly nervous condition. He testified that Grace Mills shot herself while he was lighting a cigarette. He said: "I grabbed the gun and opened her coat to see where she shot herself. I became dizzy. The gun went off again. I did not mean to shoot her."

GIRL SEALED DEATH RENDEZVOUS WITH A KISS, SAYS BUCKLEY

LOVE FOR HER TOLD TO JURY

going to throw herself in the reservoir.

"We rode out to Wayland and she said she was happy to be with me. 'Let's go away now and get married,' she said. I told her I didn't have money enough.

"She took a letter from her pocket, addressed to her mother and read it. It said: 'Don't blame Foster Buckley for my leaving tonight; by the time you get this we will be married.'

"When I told her we couldn't get married that way she told me to learn it up, and I did.

"I gave her the cheap diamond ring that night, the five-and-ten-cent store ring, and as it was too large for her finger she slipped it in her pocket."

Telling of how Grace, at an earlier meeting that day at her home proposed the midnight tryst Buckley testified:

"She embraced me and I kissed her and she said, 'Why don't you meet me tonight by the old mill after the others have gone to bed?'

"She thought I didn't believe that she meant it," he continued. "So she pulled off a white bracelet she was wearing and gave it to me as a pledge that she'd be there."

From phrases throbbing with love to terse sentences embodying stinging rebukes, the love letters which interspersed Buckley's testimony showed the rise and fall of the girl's emotions as she struggled against powerful forces — heart trouble, the wishes of her family and her love.

Crosses signifying kisses envelopped some of the letters in which she rebuked him most severely.

"She wrote me hundreds of these letters, many of them being sent through other persons to fool her family," testified Buckley, as the letters were introduced.

Long before the letters were read, when the young defendant first stepped to the witness stand looking limp and spiritless, he told the solemn faced jurors:

"I fell in love with Grace the first day I saw her, and on the day of the shooting I loved her with all my heart."

Spectators, filling the courtroom to capacity, were amazed to see the youth's nonchalant calm of previous days changed to apparent dejection as he took the stand, as if all the starch had suddenly gone out of him. But as his story progressed he gained noticably in self possession.

"SHE LOVED ME, TOO."

His voice, at first so low that he had to be cautioned to speak louder, soon built itself to the room with its volume when he flatly denied that he ever spoke of Grace before the fatal shooting, saying:

"No, sir; I had no reason to be jealous, for she loved me. She said she would never marry any other fellow."

He smiled grimly when those words of the dead girl were read from one of her letters, "not jealous because I had taken Mrs. Barry (mother of Grace) for a ride."

The thoughts that were festering with Grace during the last weeks of her life were indicated in one of her last letters, in which she wrote:

"Sometimes I wonder if I want to get well."

As she wrote:

"You know that I would sell my heart for two cents, the way it is acting. Do you want to buy it?"

She told of a novel she was reading, in another note, and said:

"The fellow and girl rented me so much of you and me—but the book ended happily."

The dramatic climax of the trial came as soon as court opened and with half a hundred men and women unable to get into the crowded room, lined in the corridor hoping to hear some of Buckley's own story later in the day.

IDLE VERY LITTLE.

Joseph Foster Buckley, 23 years old, Plain rd., Weston," said Buck ley in response to the first questions of his counsel.

"I was born in Halifax and came to the United States five years ago. I began working ten years ago. My mother died just before that time when I was 12 years old.

"My work has been mostly farming, in Hamilton, Andover and Weston. I never came at orcharding, and I had not been out of work more than four months in four years up to the time of my arrest."

Buckley is charged with murdering in the first degree. The State secretary him at about Grace Mills to death in his automobile during a ride on the night of Nov. 15th, 1927.

"I LOVED HER DEARLY"

"When did you first meet Grace Mills?" asked Atty. Ellsworth, the prosecuting attorney and the trial testimony began to begin.

"I met her about three years ago, in September," replied Buckley.

"When did you first fall in love with Grace?"

"I fell in love with her the first day I met her."

"And were you still in love with her on the day of the shooting?"

"Yes, sir, with all my heart."

Tells the jury about relations with girl.

Grace sets of places," he said. "During the last six months I also took her sisters, Dorothy, around. I took them shopping and many other places and spent a fair sum generally taking a girl."

Dorothy Mills, sister of the dead girl, and Mrs. Marie Barry, her mother, had entered the courtroom while Buckley was in the midst of his story.

They heard him tell of events leading up to the fateful ride on which Grace was shot.

DECIDED TO MARRY.

"My mother says I will have to choose between you and the family," wrote Grace in one of her letters to Buckley. Most of the letters were in pencil and Atty. Ellsworth enlisted the aid of Dist. Atty. Bushnell in deciphering them. On one occasion Buckley was called from the witness stand to help them.

Continuing his story, Buckley testified: "My relations with Grace were always the same, right from the start.

"We thought of getting married one time and I went to see Mr. Marshall about taking his house, as Grace wanted to live there, but he wanted to sell. Then Grace saw an ad in a paper about two rooms for rent in Waltham, but I decided I did not have money to get married and we ought to wait.

"In October I planned to go down East. I thought I would look for work in a lumber camp. I knew things would slacken up in my work around here. After working in Maine I expected to go home to Nova Scotia for a while. Afterwards I changed my plans on account of the Vermont flood, for I thought I could get work there.

"I bought things for the trip and had my car tuned up. I planned the trip on a road map. Herbert Smith, my friend, was going with me.

HE BUYS THE GUN.

One night I went to a movie show and saw Tom Mix. There was some shooting in the picture. From the moving picture house I went to Nagle's restaurant and told Nagle, while there, that Tom Mix was a pretty good shot and that I was, too, having once owned a .22-caliber gun.

"That was the first time I ever spoke to Nagle about the gun. The next time the matter came up was eight or ten days before Grace's death. Nagle asked me if I thought of buying a gun in connection with my trip down East. He said he had one.

"I told him I didn't know but he could bring his gun over and let me see it. A few days later, I went in and he had it.

"Nagle showed his gun to me, but it had no magazine. He agreed to sell it to me for $15. It was an old one he had had for a number of years.

"The following Tuesday—that was November 15, the last day I saw Grace alive—I was in Nagle's place in the afternoon, about 10 minutes past 5, and he took me in the back room and showed me how the gun worked. He had a magazine for it this time. I gave him $15 for it.

"I told Nagle I wanted the gun for protection in the woods. He told me the gun jammed on him and might jam on me.

"Did you see Grace Mills that same day?" he was asked by Atty. Ellsworth.

"Yes. The meeting had been arranged the previous Sunday. Grace had been at Mrs. Fuller's house in Waltham and had told Mrs. Fuller she wanted to see me Tuesday after noon at 1 o'clock. Marion Fuller relayed the message to me.

"I called on Grace at her home in accordance with her message. We sat in the parlor and she showed me the last goldfish, the only one that stayed alive of the lot I had given her.

"We talked about her health and about my going away. When I told her I was certainly going she seemed sad; tears came to her eyes and her eyes reddened. I told her I would write often if she thought she would get my letters.

"I KISSED HER."

"Several time she put her hand to her heart and said, 'This darn thing is bothering me.'

"She played love songs on the phonograph. She sat on the arm of my chair and had her arm around me. She spoke softly so her mother wouldn't hear, and she embraced me and I kissed her. I was there about an hour.

"During the talk I told her I was going to buy a gun. She said, 'Well, you had better hustle on and get it if you are going away tomorrow.' I told her I was going to get it that afternoon.

"I asked her Herbert Smith was going with me, and she said that he was taking her place.

"Then she said it was too bad we had to talk in whispers, we couldn't talk like we wanted to. 'Why don't you see me tonight?' she said. 'I will have to be after the others have gone to bed.'

"Then she said, 'Don't you believe me?' And she pulled the bracelet from her wrist and gave it to me as a pledge.

"I asked her where we could meet and she said, 'By the old mill, the big brick building near the waterfall.'

"I suggested another place, nearer her home, and we agreed on that."

'Love Notes' Girl Sent Buckley Hint Break

Some of the hundreds of letters which Joseph Foster Buckley declares Grace Mills, the girl he is charged with murdering, wrote to him were read today in court at Buckley's trial, the youth using them to prove her love for him. Among those read were the following:

Sept. 9, 1927.

Dear Foster:

I'm sorry to write a letter like this one is going to be after the nice leter I received from you. My mother and I were talking about you today and she asked me if I intended going with you after I got up and I said I didn't know. She said I could choose between you and my family. So you see how it is. Was it you who told the Fullers that I couldn't get along with a fellow and hated to see any other couple get along? They've has been quite a few things said that have started a lot of trouble. Why, Foster, did you break your promise and come up on this street? I'll never believe another promise after your breaking that one. You don't know how much it hurts me to write this letter to you, Foster, as I do like you awfully, well, too much for my own good I guess. Gee, it is hard to be in bed.

Sept. 3, 1927.

Dear Foster:

So you are peeved to think I wrote to you about Archie. Well, it's too darned bad about you. Muriel was up here last night and explained to me how it happened. I think Muriel and Billy have stopped going together. I'm sorry for I think a lot of Muriel and I know that Billy will never find a nicer girl. You always have such a good excuse when it comes to making any about Archie. But keep up the good work, it doesn't make any difference to me.

You can keep your picture if you think I'm going to mark and burn it up. If you thought I was going to do that what did you send it to me for.

I suppose you will show this letter around to your friends and have a good lauch about it.

I don't feel a bit well today and when I received your letter. Oh well, what's the use of writing about that? Sometimes I wonder if I want to get well. I suppose I do but don't realize it now. If you don't care to write to me I don't care whether you do or not. As ever, Grace.

Tuesday Morning, 8:30 a. m.
(No date.)

Foster:

The Heseltons were down to see me last night. They got down here about 5:15 and stayed for supper. I was awfully glad to see Mr. and Mrs. H. and Alice and Carroll, but not a bit pleased to see Ada. Believe me, Ada has no love for me either. Her father invited me up there when I'm able to go and you had ought to see the way she glared at me. Right in front of them all she asked me if Dot was still going with Archie. She got one good answer from me, though. I said you knew that that affair was over long before you went home. And you had ought to have seen her face. She asked me if I still was going with you, and I said I couldn't very well go with anyone while I was in bed, so she didn't get any information from me. Ada has a boyish bob and it looks much better than I thought it would. I guess I'll close for this time as it's time for the mail man. As always, Grace.

Friends also said that he had been worrying over "affairs back home" and that he was very much in love with a girl in Fresno.

He left his keys and money in his room at Conant Hall some time during the late afternoon.

Boston police kept a close watch on passengers boarding outbound trains at the South Station in the belief that he might start for home. According to friends, he had been trying for some time to get together enough money to go back to Fresno.

Lewis is a third-year graduate student in the department of geology and during 1925-26 he was an Austin teaching fellow.

DOGDOM ELITE IN HUB SHOW

Dogdom's annual Boston convention with a record list of delegates got away to a good start at its three-day meeting in Mechanics Building today.

The opening of the Eastern Dog Club show drew its usual army of dog admirers, for under the roof were gathered the very cream of the country's canine champions and a host of aspirants.

First prize in the American-bred Kerry blue terrier class went to Seumason, owned by Mrs. William Randolph Hearst.

The best Sealyham terrier was shown by Mr. and Mrs. Frederic C. Brown of New York—the handsome Ilmerdale Perfection. James Slate of North Andover won first prize in that class for best Sealyham pup.

Eric Chancellor, owned by L. H. Cutler, Cohasset, won first prize, winner and last of breed in the Great Dane exhibits.

The surprise of the show is the talking French bull terrier shown for the first time in Boston by Mrs. Mabel Robinson of Bangor, Me. This dog is supposed not only talks distinctly but sings with her master to carry tunes from the Victrola.

PADDOCK LOSES IN RACE FOR FILM BEAUTY

New York, Feb. 20—Charlie Paddock, fleet-footed sprinter, has been outraced in love by Jack Pickford, the Daily Mirror says today, and Bebe Daniels, recently injured in a studio wreck at Hollywood, will become young Pickford's third bride.

Up to a short time ago, according to the Mirror dispatches, Bebe and Charlie had been "going together" just like they do in the hinterlands, but Bebe dropped her sprinter companion suddenly and since has taken up almost wholly with Pickford.

When questioned regarding Paddock, the girl film star said: "The thing is off with Charlie, although he's a good friend of mine."

She was just as ambiguous when asked if anything serious was considered between her and Jack. "He's just a boy friend," she answered airily and with a wink.

Pickford refused anything definite also. "You'd better ask the little lady," was his response to the question.

But gossip around is that Bebe will be Jack's and Jack will be Bebe's.

If Pickford marries Bebe, it will be his third venture. His two previous mates were Olive Thomas, who committed suicide in Paris, and Marilyn Miller, who divorced him.

Miss Daniels is a single lady, although she was reported engaged to Jack Dempsey before Estelle Taylor claimed the boxer for her own.

PIGEON FINDS WAY HOME IN STORM AFTER 5 MONTHS

John Toomey, of 140 Spring st., Cambridge, welcomes "Toby", his dad's homing pigeon, who during the height of Saturday's storm flew into his coop after an absence of five months. Patrolman Timothy J. Toomey started the bird in a 150-mile race from Amesterdam, N. Y., to Boston, last September, and when Toby did not arrive at home within a week it was believed he had met with an accident

The bird was six months when he started and nearly a year old when he finished. He was thin and in poor condition and it is Toomey's belief that the young bird, in whom the homing instinct is inherent, lost his way soon after leaving the starting point. The bird's poor condition is considered evidence that he has flown thousands of miles in search of the cote where he was hatched.

DEATH GUARD DOUBLED OVER SLAYER GEDZIUM

FEAR NEW PLOT TO SAVE HIM FROM CHAIR

Fear that another attempt will be made to give Jerry Gedzium an opportunity to cheat the electric chair led today to the doubling of the guard over his visitors in the state prison at Charlestown, where he is doomed to die next week.

Every visitor to Gedzium, alias "Jerry the Pole," is under the strict surveillance of two guards, where one has been considered sufficient heretofore.

While Gedzium was in East Cambridge jail and awaiting sentence for the murder of Edward C. Ross, young bank messenger, an attempt was made to smuggle a pistol, inside a roast chicken, in to the slayer.

Jerry's 19-year-old sister Genevieve, was arrested for the offence and offered leniency if she would disclose who supplied the pistol. She refused to "squeal," and was sentenced to eight years in the woman's reformatory at Sherborn.

This fact, and the belief of the authorities that the person actually responsible for the scheme is still at large, resulted in the extra precautions, according to prison officials, who deny a new plot has been uncovered.

Warden Hendry, or a deputy, and the extra guard will accompany each of Gedzium's visitors to the death cell and stay there through the duration of the visit. In addition, the person calling upon the condemned slayer will be watched by the regular guard set over every prisoner awaiting death.

Governor Fuller will on Thursday listen to the plea of Gedzium's counsel for a commutation of sentence and unless it is granted "Jerry the Pole" will probably die a few minutes after midnight a week from tonight.

Displaying little concern over his approaching fate, the doomed man ate a hearty breakfast of cereal, eggs, toast and coffee today. He has exercised his death house privileges only by requesting cigarettes, and these he smokes in great number, seated on his cot, reading magazines.

FATHER'S PAL

Mrs. Helen M. Galleni, who all her life was the comrade of her father, George V. Tuohey, died heart-broken four months after he passed away.

DAUGHTER FOLLOWS TUOHEY IN DEATH

All her life Mrs. Helen Marie Galleni, daughter of the late George V. Tuohey, was her father's "pal," and today, less than four months after the demise of the well-known sports writer and wrestling promoter, she joined him in death.

Mrs. Galleni, wife of Victor J. Galleni, a civil engineer, died, following an illness of more than a year, at the home of her aunt, Mrs. L. A. Walsh, 255 Bradstreet ave., Beachmont. She was 23 years old, the mother of a three-year-old daughter, Elietta.

Between Tuohey, who died in a Worcester hospital November 1, and his only daughter there always existed a bond of comradeship more akin to that which sometimes binds father and son. Under her father's teaching, the girl became an accomplished athlete, excelling in basketball, swimming and rowing.

A little more than a year ago she was taken seriously ill. She was not told of her father's death until after his funeral, and the feared result materialized; she was in a coma five days after being told. From then on she failed to rally.

Her husband, mother and aunt were at her bedside when she passed away. Temporary arrangements were made for a requiem mass on Wednesday in the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes, Beachmont, where she was christened, confirmed and wed. She will be laid to rest beside her father in Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden.

BAY STATE DEBT CUT NEARLY 20 MILLION

Under the pay-as-you go policy and executive budget system of Massachusetts during the 10-year fiscal period ending this year the net direct debt has been reduced by nearly twenty million dollars.

Making this announcement today in the House, Representative Henry L. Shattuck of Boston, chairman of the House Committee on Ways and Means, added that from the peak caused by financing the soldiers' bonus there will have been a reduction of nearly twenty-eight millions.

Representative Shattuck, who was speaking upon the general appropriation bill of the current year, declared that large savings in sinking fund, serial and interest payments resulted from the pay-as-you-go policy.

"This year," he said, "our debt service appropriations are less by $1,438,701.41 than in 1919, when the budget system and the pay-as-you-go policy were inaugurated."

All the beginning the net direct debt was $32,058,102.31. Subsequently, by reason of the soldiers' bonus, it rose to a peak of $40,433,000. All notes issued for the bonus have since been paid. On November 30, 1927, Representative Shattuck said, the net direct debt had been reduced to $14,458,704.25 and by the end of the 10-year period on November 30 next it will stand at about $12,850,000.

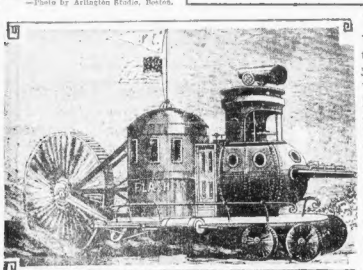
Mechanical Monster Dreams of 'Noname' Come True After 40 Years



THE PRAIRIE PRIVATEER WITH WHICH JACK WRIGHT, A "NONAME" HERO, USED TO REPEL HIGHWAYMEN

FORESAW MACHINE MARVELS

While the world this month pays tribute to the memory of Jules Verne, who fifty years ago in his ingenious scientific fiction, wrote of marvels which actually came to pass long after his death, "Noname," America's own "fiction seer," should not be forgotten. Ask your dad or your granddad about "Frank Reade, Jr.," and his daring exploits in mechanical monsters the like of which were inconceivable at the time. Once each week "Noname" had a story in a paper-covered magazine that enthralled and amazed a knowledge-thirsty public. AND MANY OF THE MACHINES HE TOLD OF ARE TODAY AMONG THE NECESSITIES IN THE DAILY LIFE OF A MECHANICAL AGE.

"NONAME" MANY OF WHOSE IMAGINATIONS ARE PRACTICAL ACCOMPLISHMENTS TODAY.

HE DREAMED ALL THESE

"Noname," an unknown Brooklyn, N. Y., writer had an inventive knack which was amazing. "Frank Reade, Jr.," was the hero in many hazardous escapades, and always came out safe, a victor. "Noname" foretold the tank of war days in his "prairie privateer." He saw the coming of the snow cutter; his ice ship is exemplified in the hydroplane, and many of the other ideas, all of which were wholely original with him, today are in use in machines of which only he dreamed in the early '90's. All of his "mechanical monsters," as they were called, were vividly pictured as shown here.

WINIFRED BLACK BARES 'STORY OF LIVING DEAD IN DOPE TRAFFIC'

DRUGS CAUSING INCREASE IN RANKS OF CRIMINALS

By WINIFRED BLACK

THE STORY OF THE LIVING DEAD—sounds sensational, doesn't it? Well, that's what they say over in Europe when they start discussing the American dope situation and the steady, inexorable, terrifying growth of the dope evil in this country year by year, month by month, day by day, almost hour by hour—sounds like a bad dream, doesn't it?

What do the actual facts and figures show?

They show that the United States takes twice as much dope as France in proportion to the population, three times as much as England, four times as much as Germany and eight times as much as Italy.

From a total purchase of 250 tons of crude opium used by licensed or authorized American manufacturers in the first 10 months of 1919, over 83 tons of morphine were extracted.

One ton of morphine is all that could be legally prescribed in that time.

During this short period we imported 10 times more crude opium than the combined possessions of Germany, France and Italy. These are not imaginary statistics dreamed in a vision. They are plain actual every-day figures taken from plain, actual, every-day government reports.

And that isn't counting the enormous amounts of opium and morphine smuggled in from Canada, Mexico and other countries.

You don't need much imagination to get an idea what that means to the people who go to these doctors for—

United States District Attorney in Southern California makes the statement that 60 per cent of the time of the two federal grand juries in Los Angeles and Fresno is taken up with cases of violation of the Harrison Narcotic Act.

He says further that the forces of the Government and the federal appropriations are nowhere near adequate to cope even half way with the situation.

The federal grand jury at El Paso, Texas, reports that boys between the ages of 14 and 18, are being taught the use of narcotics.

When they have got into the grip of "dope" they sell their clothes to get the money to buy their daily poison, and when that money is all gone they start to pilfer, at first at home and then at school.

Then they become pickpockets and petty larceny thieves and then they call down them, "pimplay," all to get drugs enough to keep going.

Every police officer in the United States can tell you fascinating stories of how "dope" is doing to the young boys and girls in his district.

Every judge in every police court, and in every federal court, too, for that matter, knows the same story and every welfare worker in this country can give you a separate and distinct version of the same horrifying tale.

Ten or fifteen years ago, the average age of the professional criminal was supposed to be between 30 and 35.

Today the average criminal isn't a day over 20, and nine times out of ten he is a dope fiend.

It is no longer at all to find boys of 15 and 16 belonging to hoodlum gangs, and the first thing the police officer who has to deal with these college cops is: "Where did you get the dope?"

For almost without exception the gangster is a "dope" fiend.

Just how much did Hickman, the California kidnaper and murderer, know about "dope"?

Nobody knows—yet.

But with those fresh, outrageous smashing hideous reels to heaven of dope—

In all the remarks of a typical narcotic victim—the ruined health, the eager clutch for money, the brain impotence, the imagination, the collapse at capture, the sudden recovery, the morbid remorseful egotism—after the confession—

Has anybody described a "dope" crime or a "dope" criminal step by step and attribute by attribute as the Hickman affair records it.

How did he happen to confess when he had been locked up for a while? Did they take away his narcotic, and then when he had confessed, give it to him again?

Nobody knows—as yet.

Hickman may tell the whole story before he dies, and if he does, how deals of "Dope" experts who have been watching this case with particular interest, will say, "I told you so."

"Dope" is the greatest maker of crime in the world today—the greatest enemy of mankind the world has ever known—the most insidious, the cruelest, the most powerful evil the human race has had to fight. How are we of America today going to fight it?

By denying the truth? By laughing at the facts? By deliberately shutting our eyes to the inexorable, steadily, terrifying growth of this dreadful evil.

Are we going to let the United States of America get into the clutches of the thing that almost choked the life out the great Chinese Nation.

The Japanese sell opium by the millions of ounces every year, but they do not allow one grain of it to be sold in Japan, except under the most rigid regulations, and then only to highly accredited physicians. And the Japanese government watches those physicians in the bargain.

Japan sells, not to the Japanese, but to China—and happy thought, to the United States.

NEVER USE IT

America is full of thrifty, hard-working, successful Japanese and among those American-Japanese are also some that traffic in opium and in morphine and it heroin. And in cocaine and in codeine, but it has never yet been revealed in all the thousands of records of these thousands of cases, that one single Japanese took himself an addict.

The Japanese sell "dope"—they do not use it.

England allows the manufacture and the sale of "dope" in her Far Eastern possessions. The English government, in fact, helps and encourages the raising of the poppy plant, from which opium and morphine and resin are made.

In India there are two half-yearly auctions of narcotics—public auctions, with all the world there to bid.

England makes an enormous revenue growing the poppy in the Straits Settlement and in India. Many Englishmen are bitterly ashamed of that fact, but it is a fact nevertheless. Try to sell "dope" in England, to a Englishman, however, and you will get into serious trouble, and it will take a great deal more than influence and money — get you out of it.

We Americans seem to be more lenient—I wonder why?

Ninety per cent of the "dope" used in this country is the smuggled "dope," and that isn't counting the slight grains apiece either—remember that.

How are we going to stop that smuggling?

How are we going to check the fearful rapidity of the growth of this incredible curse?

A narcotic addict is, first of all, an over and beyond an under and beside all, a slave.

He bows to one master, and to that master he prostrates his body and his heart and his soul, and everything that is or ever could be his.

BLAMES AMERICA

Over in Paris, there are today, so the authorities say, 200,000 addicts and for this the French writers openly blame the American invasion.

Absinthe, cognac,—the French have always had these. Morphia and cocaine, they have had too in certain comparatively small quantities, but codeine, heroin, marijuana—these things they say the Americans have introduced.

And always they speak somewhere in their article of the American influence in the situation—so much to be deplored.

How long are we going to let this noxious thing that threatens our very civilization, go on?

What is it all about anyhow?

Can't we take counsel together—we plain, simple every-day Americans, who love our country and believe in it and are proud of it—can't we try humbly and patiently and earnestly to find some path out of this dim, mysterious, deadly swamp into which we seem to be stumbling with such dazed and half-benumbed faculties.

End Dope Evil

Education Week Aims

This is Narcotic Education Week, in which the people of the entire country will be made to realize the hold narcotic drugs have upon a section of the population estimated at from 1,000,000 to 2,103,000.

The world conference on narcotic education sponsors the week. Facts to be presented by the Boston Evening American and other Hearst newspapers have been assembled from the men and sources most conversant with the subject.

Few men or women who have very knowledge of narcotics now remain unconvinced that the public needs to have placed before it as never before the evils of narcotic addiction.

The world conference on narcotic education and its associated organization, The World Narcotic Defense Association, have adopted concrete plans to combat the spread of addiction and to stamp it out where already established. The organization works with officials of national, state and municipal agencies.

Like these officials, the officers of the organizations realize they are handicapped by a lack of public appreciation of dangers from the narcotic evil, which is spread over entire country.

Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson, secretary-general of the world conference, said:

"The conference may be regarded as the first effective effort to organize all the available force of society to attack from every angle this menace to the whole race. Henceforward they can be mustered in organized position to bring the best results.

"The vitality of the race can be marshalled through processes of education, processes of law and processes of reclamation, all in defense of humanity."

One plan for combatting illicit drug traffic in the United States includes establishment of a series of allied narcotic hospitals through the country. The project calls for the first unit in New York, with others later in all great cities.

"LONDON BRIDGE IS FALLING DOWN"

Merry little tune . . . gay little tune! And for grown-up people it's one that's full of the very breath of all childhood. Yet perhaps as your own son and daughter swing through its measures, their busy little feet may need building up as much as the London Bridge they sing about.

Thousands of young feet actually do need some sort of arch support, and all young feet do need general guidance for normal growth. Shoes for children should train toes to grow straight, bones to grow straight, arches to be firmly high. For many generations, Coward shoes for boys and girls have been regarded as the truest embodiment of these principles.

CONGRESSMAN SAYS UNITED STATES CAN CURE DRUG ADDICTS

FILES BILL TO ESTABLISH 2 FEDERAL NARCOTIC FARMS

they should receive a reasonable compensation, available for their dependents."

PRISONS CROWDED

He recommended at that time also the establishment of two independent reformatories, one for men and one for women.

My proposal to establish two farms for the confinement of addicts who have violated some federal statute is in line with the President's suggestion that the federal government give more attention to its penal problems.

The federal penitentiaries at Atlanta and Leavenworth are now greatly overcrowded. The combined normal capacity of these institutions is about 2,000 and they now house more than 6,000 men. The combined population of Atlanta and Leaven worth has at times reached as high as 6300.

Since 1915 the average number of federal prisoners in confinement has increased nearly fourfold. I cannot give the reason for this expansion other than to say that the prohibition act, the Harrison Narcotic Act, and the Dyer Automobile Theft Act, have, of course, had important effect.

WRONG IDEA

I believe that in view of the impressive need for relieving the sadly overburdened facilities of the prisons and the pernicious overcrowding which encourages the recruiting of narcotic addicts and the general lowering of the standards of the better men, the government should establish immediately a narcotic farm and take the 2,000 to 2,300 men who are addicted to habit-forming drugs out of the federal prisons.

A prison is no place to treat men who are afflicted with a disease that narcotic addiction is a disease which afflicts hundreds of thousands of people in all walks of life. Often addicts are victims of misfortune over which they have no control. The drug is often administered by a reliable physician at a time when a person is suffering some great pain as the only means of saving his life. That person, unless carefully treated, is apt to become a confirmed addict who is powerless to discontinue the use of the drug.

The public has, in some cases, misconstrued addiction as being merely a vice which a man with a sufficient amount of moral fibre and mental stamina could overcome. It is rather a disease against whose ravages the addict is helpless unless he can be given careful and scientific treatment in a specialized institution for a considerable period of time, extending in some cases over a period of two, three or even four years.

The establishment of such farms would, in my opinion, not only go a long way toward relieving the congestion in federal prisons but would also operate to reduce crime, since nearly 50 per cent of the men who leave prison return again to their former activities.

How is it possible for an addict to go straight if he is turned out of prison with a gnawing appetite for a drug which costs him from $6 to $8 a day and with no money to buy it? The addict who has no money to buy or cannot secure his drug is a menace to society. We ought to get to the seat of the infection and remove the cause for crime.

PLAN FOR MODEL

I hope the proposed federal institution will be a model for the States to follow and that each of the larger will construct similar institutions. Per that reason I include in the bill a section which would require the federal government to give to each State the benefit of the experience. Model institutions should be established in conveniently sized zones and the patients can have wholesome outdoor exercise and stimulating employment during the period of their convalescence.

Institutions of this kind need not be luxurious and, as a matter of fact, they could probably be built much cheaper than could a penitentiary housing the same number of inmates. But, whatever the cost, it would be real economy, because, if 1000 addicts could be turned out of these institutions each year four thousand would be added to the normal by the federal government and save tremendous amounts in the cost of apprehending and convicting addicts. Many authorities place at $2000 to apprehend and convict an offender.

This proposal to establish United States narcotic farms is in line with the resolution I sponsored at the interparliamentary union held in Paris in August, 1927, providing that each country adopt measures looking to the compulsory treatment of drug addicts in institutions especially designed for them.

BANISH DRUGS AND CRIME WILL DROP, SAYS CROWLEY

Crime statistics would be slashed and the work of the police greatly simplified, if drugs were banished from the underworld, said Supt. Michael H. Crowley today declared in endorsing Anti-Narcotic Education Week on behalf of the Boston police department.

"Drugs and crime go hand-in-hand," added Supt. Crowley. "Drugs breed criminals of the most vicious type. They make criminals of persons who never intended to violate the law when they started out but soon become so helpless and depraved by addiction that they lose every scrap of principle, self-respect and decency.

GREATEST MENACE.

"If the good people who lead unselfish lives, far from conflict with the underworld, could be made to appreciate the evils of this peril and could behold the misery and havoc occasioned by the traffic, they would take a more active interest in any movement tending to lessen or to eradicate it.

"It is one of the greatest menaces to modern life. The drug habit is more than merely a social evil. It is a menace to the morals, the manners and habits of the whole of this peril and could behold the misery and havoc occasioned by the traffic, they would take a more active interest in any movement tending to lessen or to eradicate it.

"It is one of the greatest menaces to modern life. The drug habit is more than merely a social evil. It is a menace to the morals, the manners and habits of the whole of this peril and could behold the misery and havoc occasioned by the traffic, they would take a more active interest in any movement tending to lessen or to eradicate it.

"If only the young and the unversed could be made to realize the dangers and the utter futility of drugs, a long step toward reform would be accomplished. Nothing short a week to educate the public is a very effective and commendable way to give such a warning.

"The Hearst newspapers are performing a public service in spreading such a crusade and have the good wishes of every right-thinking, law-abiding citizen.

"Motion pictures, theatres and cinemas are invariably drug addicts. The majority of criminals steer responsive to drugs before starting out to commit crime. They call it 'supping up.' When in that state they are fearless and desperate.

YOUTHS ARE VICTIMS.

"Parents that feel that their children are immune don't know the plan and wavering barrier that separates the average home from the underworld. Some methods of the drug pedlar whose druggists are using.

"Boys and girls from our best families have succumbed because they were not properly warned. It is difficult to trap the drug pedlar and more difficult to arrest his pernicious wares. A statement issued by the International Narcotic Education Association graphically explains the obstacles confronting the police in attempting to suppress the drug traffic.

"The statement says in part: 'Nothing has stopped the traffic in prohibition—the drug is so remorseless and powerful. On 25th of a grain of morphine is a dose. $5 doses will make an addict, so four addicts in a grain. There are 480 grains in an ounce, so one ounce of heroin can produce addicts in nearly 2000 of our people.

"The statement adds that in every instance when a young addict was asked why he took to the drug he married the answer was 'I never knew.' That proves that they began using the drug without realizing the danger. Ignorance is one of the greatest foes of the drug habit. The statement says that the medical profession and educators agree that 'prevention is better than cure.' Statistics show that 95 per cent of cases treated recently have been cured.

"Which shows the wisdom of the old saying: 'An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.' Prevention in coping with this peril means emphatic and persistent warning, especially to our youth."

THE ONLY WAY TO END INDIGESTION

Remove the Cause and You Remove the Pain

Nine-tenths of digestive troubles are caused by food fermentation and excess acid in the stomach, and it is only by ending these conditions that permanent relief can be hoped for.

The quickest, safest, and surest way to do this is to take a little "Pape's Diapepsin" after eating or whenever pain is felt. This not only stops fermentation and neutralizes excess acid, but exerts a soothing, healing and strengthening influence on the weakened stomach, and induces normal healthy digestion.

That is why millions everywhere recommend "Pape's Diapepsin." Follow their sound advice—get a 50-cent package of "Pape's Diapepsin" from your druggist at once, and insure stomach health, with the fear of indigestion banished forever.

$3,000,000 INVESTED IN LEGS YEARLY

New York, N. Y.—To develop the symmetrical legs and twinkling toes that musical comedy demands, girls on the stage or girls with stage aspirations are reported to spend $3,000,000 a year in New York alone.

Dorothy Wegman, "Follies" dancer.

To clothe the beautiful legs of stars and chorines, another fortune is spent. Producers have been known to tear their hair over stocking bills, a night's high stepping being as hard on chiffon hosiery as a month of ordinary wear by the average girl.

In recent statements the producers report efforts to decrease stocking bills. They say they have discovered that if stockings are cleaned in Lux, they stay like new twice as long, give twice as many performances.

"I would use Lux if it cost $1.00 a box," Eddie Dowling, star and producer, remarked.

Now the wardrobe mistress of every musical comedy in New York uses Lux in cleansing the thousands of pairs of stockings worn by their chorines—to get double stocking wear.

The makers of Lux say that the secret of the long wear of fabrics washed in Lux is the absolute purity of Lux, and its instant rich suds that make rubbing unnecessary.

Harmful alkali (found in many soaps) and rubbing with cake soap, quickly wear out fabrics.

FIND 'L' SUICIDE WAS JAMAICA PLAIN MAN

In view of scores of waiting passengers, Douglas Anzellotte, 25, of Jamaica Plain, committed suicide early today in the Essex st. subway station by jumping directly in the path of a northbound train.

Before the monument, Gustav Fischofner of 42A Newbern st., Jamaica Plain, could bring the train to a stop, the forward and rear trucks of the first car had passed over Anzellotte's body, killing him instantly.

Scores of persons on the platform became horror-stricken as the man catapulted himself into the pit while dozens of others in the train were thrown from their seats with the sudden application of brakes.

Fire traffic officers police notified, identified the body at the morgue. He lived at 114 Sydney st., Jamaica Plain.

HICKMAN-HUNT MURDER JURY NEARING COMPLETION

Los Angeles, Feb. 20 (AP)—The State today prepared to start its final drive to convict William Hickman and Welby Hunt of the murder of C. Ivy Young, while during a lull up of his drugstore. Both prosecution and defense attorneys said the jury could be completed today. Six challenges remained to the defense.

This is Hunt's 19th birthday. Hickman's 20th birthday came during his trial for the murder of Marion Parker. Police continued search for vendors of pictures of the mutilated body of Marion Parker. The original of the pictures was stolen from police files.

BODY OF ASQUITH LAID TO REST IN HOME TOWN

Within three days, King Feb. 20 (AP)—Within a hundred yards of his home for the last sixteen years and under an old yew tree close to the walls of the ancient parish church where he had loved to worship, the body of Lord Oxford and Asquith was laid to rest this afternoon.

Simplicity marked the last rites for England's noted liberal statesman, in whose honor a memorial service will be held in Westminster Abbey tomorrow. The Bishop of Oxford officiated.

REVERE RAIDERS SEIZE 200-GALLON STILL, 2 MEN

Revere police today seized a 200-gallon still in Malden street and arrested Leonardo Tuzzolino and Filipo Vaccaro. The still was in full operation when Officers Church, Starkey, A. Sweeney and Delaney made the raid. Twenty gallons of denatured alcohol were seized and several gallons of the "cooked" product. It was necessary to cut the still in half to get it out of the barn.

MEET TO STUDY VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE

Commemorating the 20th anniversary of the founding of the "New Boston Bureau," as it is known, the conference of the National Vocational Guidance Association will take place in the Hotel Statler Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The general topic of the conference is to be "Harnessing Guidance and Personnel for Service in 1928," and educators and business men from all parts of the country are expected to attend.

There is particular interest in the location of the conference in Boston, because it was in this city that the movement was inaugurated by Dr. Frank Parsons, professor of law at Boston University, in connection with his work in the Civic Service House, 'till of Parsons' work, according to Miss Josephine Hartgen, chairman of the program committee, grew the first vocation bureau of Boston, under the direction of Meyer Bloomfield, and then the department of vocational guidance of the Boston public schools, which was organized in 1912.

THURSDAY'S ADDRESSES.

The conference will begin Thursday noon with a get-together luncheon, at which the general topic will be "Work of the Branch Associations."

At the afternoon session Michael J. Downey, assistant superintendent of Boston schools, will preside, and addresses will be made by Dr. A. H. Edgerton, University of Wisconsin, who is president of the association; Emily G. Palmer, University of California; Mildred Lincoln, Rochester, N. Y.; H. O. Small, director vocational education, Massachusetts; Susan J. Ginn, director of vocational guidance in Boston schools, and Mabelle Babcock Blake, personnel director of Smith College.

Thursday evening the topic will be "Analyses of the Problems of Industrial Personnel," with Miss Ginn presiding. The speakers will be Dr. C. E. Weidemann, University of Nebraska; Miss Mary Stewart, chief of the new vocational department of the Boston Evening American, who will speak on "Vocational Guidance Work and the Boston American," and W. H. Nieves, personnel manager W. F. Schrafft Candy Company. The discussion will be led by C. C. Robinson.

ROUND OF VISITS.

On Friday morning the members of the conference will make a round of industrial visits, including the Boston Manufacturing Co., William Filene's Sons Co., W. F. Schrafft Candy Co., the Prince School of Salesmanship and others where vocational guidance is being worked out.

There will be round-table discussions on Friday afternoon, and Friday evening there will be a dinner meeting, with President Edgerton presiding, at which addresses will be made by Dr. John M. Brewer, A. L. Filene, Meyer Bloomfield and F. O. Hoit.

The conference will conclude Saturday.

FLYING CROSS AWARDED TO 5 BY WAR DEPARTMENT

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—Award of the distinguished flying cross to five outstanding aviators was announced today by the War Department. The men honored and their deeds follow:

Capt. John A. MacReady and Lieut. Oakley G. Kelly for the first transcontinental non-stop flight from New York to San Francisco; Lieut. Arthur C. Goebel, for his non-stop flight from Oakland, Cal., to Honolulu; Lieut. Russell L. Maughan, for his dawn-to-dark flight, New York to San Francisco; and Capt. Hawthorne C. Gray, a posthumous award, for his balloon flight in 1927, reaching a record height of 42,470 feet.

FIRE CAPT. DONOVAN IS LAID TO REST

The body of Fire Captain John M. Donovan was borne to its last resting place in St. Joseph's Cemetery, West Roxbury, today, by an escort of his comrades in the department. The funeral of Donovan, who died as a result of injuries received at two fires, was held from his home, 43 Landseer av., West Roxbury, with a high mass of requiem in St. Theresa's Church.

COURT ORDER HALTS CAMBRIDGE LIGHT CUT

A temporary restraining order was issued today in Federal Court by Judge James A. Lowell against the January 31 order of the State department of public utilities that the Cambridge Electric Light Company reduce its rates from 5 cents per kilowatt hour to 3½ cents. A hearing will be held next Monday in Federal Court.

Coolidge May Pick Site

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—Representative Martin of Massachusetts today appealed to President Coolidge to accelerate selection of a site for a postoffice at Fall River. The present postoffice adjoins the area swept by the recent fire, but the building was not destroyed. The President agreed to look into the matter.

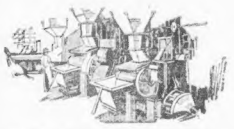
WHERE NEW ENGLAND BUYS ITS FOOD

Here are the reasons why people are glad to pay a few cents more for MUELLER'S

Mueller's Macaroni and Spaghetti are made from a special blend of the farina of the finest hard wheats. This special blend makes Mueller's finer in flavor and more easily digested.



In the Mueller mixing room the wheat is blended and mixed with scientific precision to give exactly the right qualities and to make Mueller's Macaroni and Spaghetti uniform—exactly the same, day after day and month after month.

Mueller's Products are made in a modern sun-lit American factory. Its cleanliness and perfect order would delight even the most fastidious housewife. The crisp white uniforms of the workers are laundered in our own laundry.

Mueller's Products are dried in specially designed drying cabinets which leave nothing to chance, and give a uniformity far beyond the old-style open room methods.

A wax paper inner wrapper, a paraffine-lined carton, and a completely sealed outer wrapper keep Mueller's Products fresh, full-flavored and free from contamination.

Henry Mueller says—

"First, I want to thank all our thousands of friends who appreciate the superior quality of Mueller's products—and pay the few cents extra to get this quality.

"This is very gratifying. It shows me that people appreciate all the care I take in my factory to make Mueller's better than any other Macaroni or Spaghetti. [See left-hand column]

"Mueller's is the largest selling brand in America. And even now, I do not believe that most people eat as much Macaroni and Spaghetti as they ought to for their own best health [See right-hand column] —or as much as they will when they learn how many delicious ways there are to eat Mueller's products.

"Let me thank you again, with the assurance that Mueller's products will always cost a little more than the average—and will always be worth more than the difference."

These people and thousands more, ought to eat more MACARONI* because—

Growing Children:
"The value of Macaroni is due not only to its high gluten content, but also to its tissue building material and mineral content as well, and these make it particularly valuable in children's diet."
From Good Housekeeping

High Pressure Executives:
"Most people can digest Macaroni more easily and more rapidly than meat. It offers, therefore, an admirable substitute for meat, particularly for midday meals."
Sir Henry Thompson, the great English authority.

Hard Physical Workers:
Winfield S. Hall, nutrition expert, says, "On such a dish as Macaroni and cheese one can make a complete meal, satisfying every requirement of the human body."

Elderly Persons:
Dr. Lorand, the great specialist of Carlsbad, says, "Macaroni is nutritious and easily digested. It does not impose any hard work on the stomach or intestines."

Busy Mothers:
For one-dish luncheons, easy to prepare, Macaroni and Spaghetti are unequalled. In "Nutrition and Dietetics," by Hall we read: "On such a dish as Macaroni and cheese one can make a complete meal, satisfying every requirement of the human body."

What is said here about Macaroni applies with equal force to Spaghetti.*

Sore throat all about you!

TRIED IT YET? New and different! Listerine SHAVING CREAM. Your skin feels marvelously cool long after shaving.

Gargle twice a day

These are days when sore throat, colds, "flu" and pneumonia are a constant threat. At the first sign of throat irritation gargle repeatedly with Listerine used full strength.

It may be—and very probably will be—the means of warding off a nasty cold, or worse.

The instant Listerine enters your mouth, it attacks the disease-producing bacteria that develop and multiply there.

For this reason, it has been the first aid of millions in checking cold weather complaints before they became serious.

In view of your constant exposure to disease germs, we urge you to use Listerine night and morning every day during cold weather. A simple precaution—but well worth taking. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

RUSSIA OFFERS WORLD PACT TO DISARM

Geneva, Feb. 20 — Soviet Russia, which recently proposed the complete abolishment of armaments, today deposited the text of a draft disarmament convention with the League of Nations.

The text, filed by Boris Stein Soviet observer at the security commission meetings which opened today, is based upon the disarmament proposals that Maxim Litvinoff, ex-Soviet Commissar of Foreign Affairs, submitted at the last meeting of the preparatory commission for a disarmament conference.

The Russian draft convention will serve as a starting point for discussion of the Russian proposals at the meeting of the preparatory commission opening March 15. It will be forwarded to all members of the League.

PEACE OF WARS AVERTED.

Disputes between the United States and Great Britain in the last hundred years, that might have resulted in war, were amicably settled by arbitration, Baron Cushendun, Great Britain, told the security commission today, in an appeal for development of conciliation and arbitration.

Declaring that disarmament and peace could be promoted either by multilateral treaties of conciliation and arbitration or bilateral treaties, Lord Cushendun pledged Great Britain's help in the creation of such agreements.

FOR WORLD "LOCARNO"

He strongly urged the security commission to propose world regions where pacts of security and non-aggression similar to that of Locarno could be established in the interests of international peace.

What they saw was the power of American public opinion in forcing the Government to reduce its naval program was the evidence of much comment here among delegates.

Commenting on dispatches from America, delegates said there was no reason why the American move, which they asserted sprang from the people, should not spread over Europe and prove potent in causing statesmen to prune ambitious armament projects.

ALLSTON MAN SLIPS, KILLED UNDER TRAIN

Westerly, R. I., Feb. 20 (AP)—Injuries received when he slipped and fell beneath the wheels of a passenger train from which he was descending at the station here today caused the death of S. Gleason Allen, 37, of Allston, Mass., member of the Boston millinery firm of Powers & Allen. He died in an ambulance en route from the station to a hospital. The body was identified by an automobile driver's license.

FIGHT BILL AIMED AT CHAIN DRUG STORES

Vigorous opposition to a bill of the Massachusetts Pharmaceutical Association designed to check the growth of chain drug stores, was today voiced at a hearing before the legislative committee on public health. Under the bill every pharmacy or drug store would be owned only by a licensed pharmacist. No corporation, association or copartnership could own such a store unless all the partners are licensed pharmacists. Existing stores would be allowed to continue and would be prohibited from expanding.

LINDBERGH MEDAL BILLS APPROVED BY COMMITTEE

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—Two bills authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to issue Lindbergh medals were voted today by the House coinage committee.

One of the bills would provide $15,000 for medals to be presented to Lindbergh, with duplicates in bronze to be sold to the public.

Green to Be Claims Judge

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—Representative William R. Green of Iowa was nominated by President Coolidge today to be judge of the United States Court of Claims.

Yo, Ho Ho! Coast Guards Find Cargo of Herrings!

"And the quest ended there,
For the good ship was here,
Of the spirit that chased it;
Uncle Sam took good care
There was no after late,
That the herring they'd stocked—dry as dust!"

—Anon.

Coast guardsmen, customs raiders, patrol boats and a grimly outlined fleet of rumrunners watched a "drama" that failed to dramatize today when the schooner J. Duffy, suspected of being under surveillance, failed to produce a cargo of liquor she was thought to be carrying.

The good ship Duffy left Belloran, N. Y., and sailed as serenely as a schooner is able through the terrors of a gale-lashed North Atlantic. All was quiet until the ship hit Gloucester.

There Oscar Vinge of Coast Guard Base 1, trading a crew of fellow guardsmen, fell upon the ship and seized eight bottles of alleged liquor.

Followed a search, with no success.

"We are going to Boston," said Coast Guardsman Fitzgerald, "to unload the rest of our herring."

"So are we," said Oscar Vinge, "pack."

Coast Guard patrol boat 174 made the trip, towed to the gun'ales with liquor aboard.

Deputy Collector Thomas F. Finnegan, appointed from the start, joined the chase with his squad of men.

Herring to the last was the verdict as the final barrel swung overside from the hold of the good ship Duffy, while the searchers folded their cigarettes blanks and silently stole away.

REGISTRATION OF LOBBYISTS FAVORED

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Senate judiciary committee went on record today in favor of the registration of lobbyists with the secretary of the Senate and the clerk of the House.

Favorable report was ordered on the bill of Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, similar to an amendment to the Senate rules recently proposed by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, except that it provides for those who fail to comply with its terms, a minimum of one month in jail and $100 fine and maximum of 12 months and fine of $1000.

CLEAN KIDNEYS BY DRINKING LOTS OF WATER

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

Dearest Anne:

There's so much to see and talk about this week, I guess you'll have to plan to spend several days with me. And if you'd care to bring little Elizabeth along, I'd be quite delighted. So many things to show you—so many places to take you—I can scarcely wait until your train comes puffing in!

Foot Loose

And free to walk whither your fancy leads you! That's what a few of Dr. Saul's scientific corn and callous treatments will do for you! He's one of those mortals with a magic gift for scattering sorrow! We'll drop in tomorrow and see what a difference it makes. How bright life looks, how happy we'll be! H. P. supply shoe-comfort, too, such as you haven't dreamed of. Fitted to measure shoes, arch supports concealed, smartness revealed in style lines and color effects, ($8.00.) And for varicose veins those marvelous silk elastic stockings ($6.75). Dr. Saul, Chiropodist-Podiatrist, 110 Tremont St., Room 312, Phone Liberty 6649.

A Permanent

With a personality! That's the sort we all wish for—and the sort always to be had at the skilled hands of L. Max. You're sure to be delighted with his handiwork. Here, gray or faded hair may be transformed to its natural shade; and Max is particularly successful in treating hair spoiled by harsh dyes or incorrect methods. His 35 years of experience and scientific research have made him doubly proficient in his art—and prices are extremely modest. L. Max, 154 Boylston St. Entire 3rd Floor. Phone Capitol 5931.

A Parisian Air

Is quite noticeable in this dimber lady—in fact, it pervades the entire French Lamp and Shade Shop, 89 Boylston St. You'll see it in the skilled design of shades, the exotic luxury of silken cushions, of alluring trifles for boudoir or gifts. And you may learn to copy it yourself, either in the daytime or on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Jap silk, $1.10; Georgette, $1.45; frames, 75c; find it, Do. Most moderately priced. And for just this week, the February Sale offers all made up shades, and lamp bases too, at prices greatly reduced.

Spring's Favored Scarfs

Seem to be of fox and wolf this year, Anne. And no wonder when you see the gorgeous skins and the new shades they've taken on. I've made the greatest discovery! At Geo. L. Griffin & Son, Inc., 360 Washington St., they've the most remarkable display of new modes at prices that make you want to run right in to buy one. Red fox or brown—from $29.50 to $85. And pointed fox, that lovely rich, dark brown with silvery "hairs," $69 to $100, according to the quality of skin. The handsomest wolf scarfs in beige, blue, platinum; $79.50 to $52.50.

For Health

And Beauty most of us would travel far, wouldn't we, Anne? But there's no need to go farther than 34 West St., Room 807. There Wanda Thy Wanda has the secret of both, in the Nature Creek Health Builder and Beauty Machine. Gerry's delighted with the results she's getting from it, for she needn't deny herself all her favorite foods! In conjunction with "Fruit Eliminator" at $1.25 (the more for mailing) she's growing beautifully sylphlike and gorgeously healthy! She's ad pted a favorite Creed of Miss Wanda's, too. She'll tell you about it if you ask her. It works wonders!

New Angles and Slants

The modernistic mode has certainly "caught on"—to wrists and necks, to shell-like ears, to hats and shoulders (smart ones!). Just gaze on the latest whimsey—"as-they-fall" designs in angular and triangular necklets, bracelets, hat pins, brooches. New as tomorrow morning's paper, and quite as up-to-the second! I discovered them the other day at Filene's—a few forerunners. But there's a rumor afloat that they'll take the mode by storm—I shouldn't be surprised! New York's quite "mad about them, already! They're really quite simple, too. Just gold and silver tri-angles, white and yellow gold-filled linked together in the most unexpected fashion in the world. I can't really describe their inimitable air of smartness—a glimpse of yourself in the mirror will convince you—and the lovely lady in the picture conveys an idea of how you'll look—quite irresistible—don't you think? Pins with safety catches, and hat pins, $1.00; necklets, $2.00; earrings, $1.50; bracelets, $1.00.

Evesdropping

At Evelyn's—Listen: "Yes, my niece bought two of the prettiest frocks here—2 for $25.00? So I came in today. I'll take this one myself, gifted—and makes me look like a queen." The frock was navy silk crepe at $7.95—incredibly good-looking! Meanwhile, I cast an eye about for more of Evelyn's values. She's got more of those 2 for $25 ones for $16.50; frocks—brilliant prints, silk crepes with a smartness all their own; evening frocks. And the BEST looking ensembles, suits and frocks at $14.95. Others $19.50, and a marvelous group for $8.95. Heavily furred coats—a very few—were $85. Now $25. For style and value you can't "go wrong" at Evelyn's, 3 Winter st., 3d Floor.

Rosy-Fingered

As the dawn! Nails with the sheen of jewels; lovely hands that flit among the teachings, flutter over the bridge table when it's your deal. Peggy Sage has made it quite possible. "The manicure preparations everyone knows" solve every problem in a hand. The rose petal lustre of her Nail Enamel in three rose tints —pale, medium, dark (also clear if you wish), $1.50 a single vial; set of 3, enamel and remover, $2; set of 3, tinted, clear and remover, $3. It neither cracks, peels nor grows discolored by time. And speaking of nicotine, there's a Nicotine Remover at $1 that leaves fingers stainless after cigarettes. There's a full line of Peggy Sage preparations at C. F. Hovey Co.

Do It Yourself!

A hat for each costume! Expensive? Not if you make them yourself. With a frame to your liking—soft or stiff, large or small head-size—(35c), a bit of new straw braid, a wisp of silk, a smart small quill, a silk lining ready to sew in, a few stitches, and presto! a hat! This way, you can have half a dozen instead of one or two. There are semi-fitted straw hoods, too, ready to wear with a pinch here, a tuck there, a tilting of the brim to suit you. Small colors, each at $2.75. All these and whatever else you need at A. W. Bennett's, Millinery Goods, 127 Tremont St., 5th floor.

Outgrown

Are the old quarters of the Fern Lamp & Shade Shop, Anne, where we learned to make shades one Christmas. The shop has moved to the floor above, where there's lots more room. 6th Floor, Cindy Ridge, 480 Washington St. But the making of the shades, colorful cushions, wardrobes, for French dolls, are the newest in curtains and spreads—goes merrily on! Free instructions, planning and pilfering always with you! Or more ready-to-make modes, slenderizing, sophisticated. You'll find Cheney's and Mallinson's silks there, too, and now I've not told you half. Chandler & Co., Tremont st. at West.

Brick Oven Tavern, 40 Joy St., Beacon Hill

Anne, we've been missing something! But we're not going to miss it any more. It's the most unique and original place I've seen. Long ago 'twas a racing stable; and now you eat in the one-time horse stalls! And how you DO eat—food for the gods! Between courses you stroll through the gift shop and gaze enchanted at old world treasures personally selected by Miss Jordan on her annual trip to the Continent. Hand carved Italian chairs; Italian water bottles in pale green; French lamp bases from the Riviera; exquisite damask pieces for pillow tops are featured this week. Luncheon 12-2, Tea 4-5. New Landfield's,

Anne, a Birthday Sale! I'm fairly breathless yet with the news! Beginning Tuesday morning—such amazing values as these! Real fish net silk hose that usually sells at $4.00, for $2.99. Colorweb sheer chiffon hose—every thread silk—usually $4.00 for $2.98. And in the group on which you can have free mending—all-silk chiffon at $1.39; service and chiffon weight at $1.19. But that's only half my news! The rest is silken lingerie—showable—but I can't begin to tell you; you'll just have to meet me Tuesday at nine, in Room 304, 8 Winter St.

The Perfect Gesture

The slightest shrug of a shoulder dazzling white—the lifting of a lovely hand—the gesture a delight to the beholder . . . alluring . . . BUT . . . the shoulder must be flawless. the hand milk white, velvet soft; kept so by Lesquendieu's Sue de Cow combination (Cuticle Lotion). Without risk you'll find it, for loosening and whitening the skin; healing and softening almost beyond belief. You know, Anne, how incomparable Jobin always looks in evening attire. I discovered the other day she always uses this Lotion ($2.00) made in France, elusively fragrant, and—found exclusively at Meyer Jonasson's Tremont and Boylston Sts.

The Paris "Openings"

Have come to Boston, Anne! And I have tickets for you and me! Aren't you THRILLED? At The Shepard Stores, Colonial Room this week at 2:30 and 8:30 each day—hundreds of holiday Fashion Show gowns of the American Rayon Institute. Original frocks designed by Jenny, Vionnet, Chanel, Redfern and Premet—within a few. And some of the loveliest are to be worn by Marion Morehouse, internationally famous mannequin. Tickets are free for the asking (just inside the Tremont St. Entrance) but only 400 are issued for each day, so I get ours early. For Wednesday, Anne, at 2:30.

The Spanish Galleries

Gay with prints and posies! Like a garden of sprightly, flaming flowers—the new frocks beckon you to buy. New "bankroll" prints; Indian pattern prints; "feminine" prints in gay profusion —and, be it known, selling fast and furiously! Cindy Ridge, so astonishing, considering the price range. Fifth Floor Misses, clever little frocks that would be quaint—except for that small dash o' dash here that sets them apart. The swirl of smartly pleated skirts and collars—Vionnet's new surprise!—the neckline. For women, more staidly modes, slenderizing, sophisticated. You'll find Cheney's and Mallinson's silks there, too, and now I've not told you half. Chandler & Co., Tremont st. at West.

To Sew a Fine Seam

Is my one ambition, Anne since I've seen the newest creation in Mallinson's silks! I just feel like making a whole new wardrobe! "Playgrounds of the World" is called and it's pronounced the loveliest silk ever conceived. Color—artistry—sunny playgrounds—Rose-gardens of Italy—Alpine meadows—reproduced in colors that make you gaze enthralled! These Mallinson Prints are developed in Vaseline Crepe at $4.95 a yard; Indestructible Chiffon at $4.75; and Pussy Willow at $4.85. Just imagine such gorgeousness at these prices! At Thresher Bros., Inc., 19 Temple Pl. and 41 West St.

Extra! Extra!!

For 2 days exactly! Today, Tuesday, Thursday. A special sale of brand new frocks (scarcely out of their tissue wrappings), priced ONLY $14.75!! Now but two days more in which to sell for dollars and dollars more! Frocks of much-sought "Indian" prints; native designs of feather wee-bonnets and tomahawks! Georgettes, lustrous silk crepes and Mallinson prints in Spring's smartest shades. With 1 hand time to enumerate styles, but the sketch will give you a hint of the scores of newest fashions—hardly 2 alike. Let's hurry, for they're selling right and left at Allyn's, 41 Winter St. 5th Floor.

At Half Price

Or even less! The very lamps and shades you're looking for, Anne! Shades hand-made at the Ambassador Lamp Shop, 41 Winter St., 5th Floor. Some of imported Chinese pongee hand-loomed or embroidered; others ruffled and tiered. No two alike, Anne, for each is individually reduced for quick selling. Right for boudoir and living rooms—floor lamps; junior floor lamps; bridge lamps—Spanish brass or French gold finish. Gorgeous hand-done ambassador shades at such prices amazingly low! Even shade frames and materials marked way down; and you learn to use them right at the shop.

Casting Shadows

Over the bloom of a lovely complexion, the whiteness of a slender arm, the sheerness of a sleeveless evening gown—taking the joy out of life's most perfect moments! That's the beauty of an imperfect hair . . . and it's so need be! Just one visit to Lucienne Selenka has found a way to eliminate it perfectly. Trichi System, 160 Boylston st., removes these unsightly growths easily, painlessly, for all time; and without a trace of scar on the most fragile skin. Why suffer a moment longer than necessary? Consult a Trichi representative without obligation, or phone Hancock 3233 for appointment.

Our Mirrors

Show us to ourselves as others see us . . . And under right conditions they'll show reflections lovely as our fondest dreams! Perhaps, if we could see certain thousands of women as they appear with complexion glowing with healthful radiance, illness disappearing, a svelte perfection of slenderness, women who have come to look 5 to 20 years younger—we'd be impressed—interested to know! It's done! But when OUR OWN reflection smiles back at us, years younger —more alluring—that's proof that youth can be ours. It's true, I've tried it! The secret is Absorption. Dr. Post's Beauty Course ($15). Also method free of charge at Post Institute, 6 Beacon St., Room 910. Phone Haymarket 1847.

SARDOU DRAMA ALLURES HUB SOCIETY, SAYS BITTY ALDEN

Curtis Child Rejoins Father After World Tour; Supper Precedes Walker-Vose Bridal

ALMOST TO A MAN AND CERTAINLY TO A WOMAN, THE BOSTON SMART Set, the local intelligentsia and what of High Bohemia the town may lay claim to possessing are theater-bound this week. More particularly, they are "Diplomacy" bound. They have long since snapped up every available reservation at the Colonial Theater for this week, in which Sardou's great drawingroom drama is presented, on vocal boards, with an all-star cast, so very starry it might well be a constellation complete. In a late winter week decidedly lacking social psychedelics, and preponderately "benefit-ish" stage fare so brilliantly sophisticated is a treat indeed.

NO ONE THUMBING OVER THE RESERVATIONS LIST FOR "DIPLOMACY" would venture the trite (and sometime true) statement that Boston's theatrical fare must be of the lighter sort to gain approbation. Of course, one needs only to glimpse the collegiate onslaught when glorified girlishness is the theatrical theme, to believe that masculine youth takes its theatricals not at all seriously. But for once, at least during the current season, Harvard signifies its vast approval of the high things of the stage, and as for society, that is coming out in force, as I have said.

AN AUDIENCE TYPICALLY "FIRST NIGHT" IN IMPORTANCE WILL CROWD into the Colonial this evening. And other such gatherings will continue throughout the week. Mrs. David Stevens, mater to Miss Margaret Fitzhugh Browne, noted artist, is a ticket holder. Reservations have been made by Mrs. Randolph Frothingham, Mrs. Kennard Winsor, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Walworth, Mrs. Eugene Endicott, Mrs. Franklin Dexter, Evan Randolph, Mrs. William Edwards, Samuel C. Endicott, Mrs. Francis R. Hart, Mrs. C. W. Conklin of Lime st., Mrs. Joseph M. Baldridge and Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Bolles among many others of similar distinctions.

JUST BACK FROM A TWO YEARS WORLD-GIRDLING JOURNEY, CURTIS CHILD has rejoined his father, Frederick L. Child, at the Hotel Sheraton. Business as well as the pleasures of travel were combined, to advantage, in Mr. Child's round the globe pilgrimage, which included practically every country in the geography. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Fiske, who have had an apartment at the Sheraton this winter, are just about departing on a European journey. They take ship next Saturday, and will be away for some months.

THE MERRIEST, THE LARGEST AND THE MOST IMPORTANT PRENUPTIAL celebration having to do with the Vose-Walker wedding was yesterday's supper party at the Louise E. Vose home in Charles River sq., given for Miss Nancy Vose, black-eyed and petite bride-to-be; for Guy Warren Walker, Jr., her intended, and for the young men and girls who will attend the two principals at the altar tomorrow. Mr. Warren's staff is headed by William Townsend Snow, who married the lovely Miss Rosamond Reed last year. And pretty girls (one already a matron) to the number of five attend Miss Vose.

JUST AS TOMORROW AFTERNOON'S SHADOWS ARE LENGTHENING TOWARD sundown wedding chimes for the Vose-Walker nuptials will resound from King's Chapel, that weathered age-hoary edifice so very much surrounded by the city's vortex without, and so very sanctimoniously quiet within. Marriage vows take on utmost solemnity within its sainted walls. After the "I wills" are said everyone goes on to Charles River sq. to view the gifts at No. 8 and just across the way at No. 16 to greet the bride and bridegroom and to dance. The Vose way of staging the wedding festivities is most unusual and interesting.

CANINE ARISTOCRATS OF ALL THE SMART BREEDS WILL SIT IN HAUGHTY isolation for their three days on exhibition at the Eastern Dog Club show. Mechanics Hall will resound with various sorts of barks, from pert terriers, from long and slender Great Danes, from grayhounds, from great shaggy St. Bernards from silky eared cocker spaniels, from fluffy chows. Every famous kennel for many a mile is sending its best, attended like royalty, as is fitting for those canines whose pedigrees stretch back through lines of famous forebears.

THE HOMER GAGE CHAMPIONS ARE DOWN FROM SHREWSBURY. Q. A. Shaw McKean's Pride's Hill kennels have their aristocratic representation. Charles Van Brunt Cushman of Pomfret, down in Connecticut, who has enormous stables as well as kennels, sends his Sealyhams to bring home some ribbons for The well filled trophy room. Dudley P. Rogers is a nearby exhibitor and owner of certain specimens of dogdish perfection. Here-abouts the blue ribbon dogs stand only second in esteem to blue blooded equines, and today, tomorrow and the holiday are essentially dog days.

World-Famous People Gather To Meet Broadway Stars

A Friesland immigrant came to America with five dollars in his pocket. He created an institution in New York City —Hofbrau House - where for over 30 years the great of the world have gathered.

That man's name is August Janssen.

Before coming to the United States, Mr. Janssen worked through the kitchens of the Hotel Maurice in Paris, where he learned the chemistry of food which is the highest art in food preparation. With the money he thus earned, he put himself through the famous University of Gottingen receiving on graduation the degree of M. D.

Princes have been entertained at his restaurants. Metropolitan Opera singers have made him an intimate. Caruso was among them. Broadway stars find at his restaurants the atmosphere they like. There is always something doing.

Janssen, by his love of art and music, has made himself an agreeable companion to celebrities in these lines. He has created an atmosphere appealing to their tastes. Music and dancing are there to delight them.

But, above all, he has won them by delicious foods. A thousand dishes served at Hofbrau House have helped to make it famous.

"Janssen wants to see you." Go accept that invitation at an early opportunity. August Janssen is now an important man. Not only in business affairs, but in civic and political. Go and see how he won his well-deserved success.

He calls his Midtown Hofbrau "America's finest restaurant" if you agree. The coffee is, of course, always La Touraine. No other blend could match the cuisine of a place like that.

The coffee which holds the top place in New England, the birthplace of fine coffees. The coffee which forms the supreme result of 117 years of coffee development.

The coffee which blends the four finest varieties which grow. Each comes from a different country, each is the pride of a nation.

The coffee served in countless places which pride themselves on exceptional coffee. The coffee you get at the Ritz-Carlton in Boston, at the Kenmore, at the Elks. The coffee you get at any Statler Hotel.

The coffee they serve at the finest tea rooms in New York the Colonia and the Vanity Fair. They serve it on extra-fare trains. In New England Inns which cater to summer tourists. In country homes noted for fine hospitality.

You should know that coffee—La Touraine. Ask your grocer for it—today.

Modern and Primitive Devices in Byrd's Outfit

New York, Feb. 20 (AP)—Seventeen of man's most primitive aids to travel in ice-bound regions and three of the most modern—including the dog team and the airplane—will be used by Commander Richard E. Byrd on his projected expedition to the South Pole.

Announcement has been made that Commander Byrd is having a Bellanca monoplane, similar to the Columbia, in which Clarence Chamberlin and Charles Levine flew to Germany, built to add to the tri-motored Fokker and the Fokker Universal, already part of his equipment. And at Monument, N. H., three of the 17 dog teams he is to take with him are being trained by Arthur T. Walden, who will be his dog chief on the polar dash.

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

SUB S4 REPORT ON WEDNESDAY

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Naval official of Inquiry's report on the submarine S4 disaster if December 17 will be made public Wednesday, Secretary Wilbur announced today after a conference with Under Secretary Mellon of the Treasury and Admiral Billard, commandant of the coast guard.

Secretary Wilbur said the recommendation and opinions would be referred to the court of inquiry for further consideration, but before this court reaches its final conclusions it has been decided that the original report would be released to the public.

It will be furnished the press for publication on Wednesday morning.

The statement of Secretary Wilbur was taken to indicate that there is some difference between the findings of the Treasury, which controls the coast guard, and those of the Naval Court of Inquiry. The coast guard cutter Paulding rammed the submarine.

Vanderbilt, Whitney and Mackay Lead N. Y. "40,000"

New York, Feb. 20 (INS)—The "Four Hundred," as the elite in New York society once were termed, is now the "Forty Thousand." The current issue of "Who Members of New York," a semi-official index of Gotham's bluebloods, contains the names of more than 40,000 members of 43 "smart" clubs in the Metropolitan area.

The book reveals that the city's "champion clubmen" are Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Henry Payne Whitney and Clarence H. Mackay. Each is a member of 16 clubs. J. P. Morgan has 15 memberships in 14.

LONSDALE MILL OPENS ON 54-HOUR SCHEDULE

Pawtucket, R. I., Feb. 20 (AP)—After a shut down of more than three weeks the number four mill of the Lonsdale Company in Lonsdale, near here, resumed today on a 54-hour per week schedule. A 48-hour week has been in effect at the plant for several years. The company is paying extra wages for the extra hours. About five hundred employees are affected.

JOAN HIGGINSON TO WED ALEXANDER M. SMITH

The engagement of Miss Joan Higginson, daughter of Francis Lee Higginson of 218 Commonwealth ave., to Alexander Mackay Smith of New York city, a student at Harvard law school, was announced today. Miss Higginson is a member of the Junior League and Vincent Club. They will probably be wed in June.

FEARED 'FRAME-UP' BY HUBBY

Mrs. Maud A. Deane of Brookline feared her husband, George H. Deane, yachtsman, would "frame" her, she testified today in Norfolk Probate Court, where trial of her separate support suit was resumed today after a month's hiatus.

In her suit, Mrs. Deane has named Mrs. Florence M. Densmore of Brookline. Cross-charges against Mrs. Deane have been made by the husband, naming Charles G. Tuttle.

Tuttle, it was testified today by Mrs. Deane, was "just an acquaintance" of hers, a man whom she met by accident.

Mrs. Deane admitted she went riding with Tuttle although she knew she was being followed by detectives.

Only Four Bay State Towns Have All Taxes Collected

Goswold, Hopedale, Mills and Sunderland have the distinction of being the only communities in the State with no uncollected taxes on January 1, Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long revealed today.

Uncollected taxes in all the cities and towns on January 1, 1928, the report shows, totaled $40,375,030, as against $47,294,819 on the same date the previous year.

In Boston the uncollected taxes are: $11,655 in 1925; $766,521 in 1926; $485,091 in 1927; $1,673,477 in prior years. The total of Boston uncollected taxes is given at $9,979,024.

Cambridge shows a total of $1,626,522 in uncollected taxes as follows: $1,220,183 in 1927; $92,214 in 1926; $47,787 in 1925; $163,073 in prior years.

POPE MAKES A PLEA FOR "WHOLESOME READING"

Rome, Feb. 20 (AP)—Some whole some reading should be extolled in modern sermons, Pope Pius told a large gathering of parish priests and special lenten preachers. The necessity of parishioners refraining from reading prohibited books was emphasized by the Pontiff with only a slightly veiled allusion to the works of Gabriele D'Annunzio whose doctrine of the superman the Pope condemned.

NEW EXAMS FOR DRY FORCE

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—New examinations will be required in all prohibition districts except five or more before a full prohibition personnel can be entrusted under the civil service requirements.

The examinations in the civil service examining boards have expressly so say. Prohibition Commissioner Doran said today, and until new examinations are in the Civil Service Commission has agreed to permit temporary appointments.

Examinations for a additional list of eligibles, Mr. Doran said, will be held at one time for all the districts.

Killed by Somerville Truck

OPPOSE TOLL TO EAST BOSTON

James E. Maguire, editor of the East Boston Free Press, today told the legislative committee on metropolitan affairs that the people of East Boston would never submit to a toll bridge or tunnel as advocated in bills pending. He opposed the petitions of Charles W. Gifford and others.

Representative William H. Hearn, East Boston, asked authorization of a commission to begin building a tunnel or bridge after hearings and complete investigation. Patrick F. Moran, 3rd, and Edward L. Logan and former Representative Louis Mullen of Charlestown also spoke.

Want Dogs Vaccinated

Providence, Feb. 20 (AP)—Vaccination of all dogs in Rhode Island was urged today by the state health department, which announced that the spread of rabies was becoming a serious menace.

Lindy Bars Society Functions To Eat With Fliers

Chicago, Feb. 20 (INS)—Civic organizations and society leaders were "tipped off" today that it would probably be useless to plan any large affairs in honor of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who is scheduled to arrive here this evening in his old capacity of St. Louis-Chicago airmail pilot.

Lindbergh, it was said, has expressed a desire for simplicity which was taken to mean that he will prefer to share the humble fare and modest sleeping quarters of the other mail fliers. The famous aviator is scheduled to arrive in Chicago at 7 p. m. The return trip will be made tomorrow.

LINDY URGED TO CURTAIL FLYING

To fly or not to fly—that is the question.

The tall, slim hero of the New York-to-Paris flight is not given, as was Hamlet, to morose soliloquy, yet he no doubt is giving much consideration to the advice reaching him from every quarter regarding his future conduct at the controls of an airplane.

Secretary of War Davis has advised Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to make no more long, non-stop flights that would endanger his life.

Lindy himself thinks he should keep on flying. Many of his admirers believe he should quit flying entirely.

What do you think? Mark your opinion on the ballot accompanying this story and send it in to the Boston Evening American. All votes will be sent to Lindy.

Following are some opinions voiced today:

W. W. LUFKIN, Collector of the Port—The request made by Secretary Davis has been my feeling for some time. Lindy is a remarkable youth and is invaluable for the work of experimenting, teacher and "spreading the gospel" of flying. Aviation is by no means safe as yet. It is not even 75 per cent safe. I think he should curtail stunts or any sort of flying that approaches a risk, because his life and the knowledge he possesses is much more valuable to the nation than the discovery of a new trick.

DANIEL J. HARKINS, New England passenger manager for the United American Lines—I would suggest that Lindy use his own judgment in matters of flying. He proved to the world that his ocean flight was a combination of confidence in himself and knowledge of aviation—not the luck that some would show. He proved it in his other long hops. I consider him the most able man in the world at the controls of a plane and would suggest that he use his own judgment. He has proved his merits and is in the best position to judge his qualifications.

EDMUND A. O'NEILL, passenger agent for the Dollar Steamship Line—That boy needs no curtailment on flying in any estimate. Neither do I mean that he will not take advice. However, his flying and most everything he has attempted has met with success. Lindy knows his own ability best, and while I would dread to hear of him meeting with a mishap, I would suggest that he be encouraged to run his own course in the aviation trail he is blazing.

JOSEPH A. WEHLEN, recently returned from Germany after study of Aviation vs. Ships for the Hamburg American Line—Aviation, while progressing rapidly and largely through the work of Lindy, is not at the 200 per cent safety stage. I fear for the time when some accident might befall the headed pioneer in the short history of flying. Yet, Col. Lindbergh has always shown himself to be a man of almost uncanny accomplishments and a firm believer in the adage, "Be sure you're right; then go ahead." I would suggest he use his own judgment.

Should Lindy Fly? What Is Your Opinion?

Secretary of War Davis wants Lindy to abandon long non-stop flights. Others want him to give up flying entirely. My opinion is that:

1—Lindbergh should give up flying entirely.....

2—Lindbergh should continue to fly, but eliminate long non-stop flights.....

3—Lindbergh should eliminate stunt flying—acrobatics .....

4—Lindbergh should continue flying without any reservations whatever .....

SIX PLANES FOR LINDY MAIL

St. Louis, Feb. 20 (AP)—A flurry of airmail letters poured into postal stations and rodmer mail boxes today, responding to the call of a modern Pied Piper, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

From all kinds of people came the red, white and blue missives in a last minute rush for the one-day return of Col. Lindbergh to his old St. Louis-Springfield-Peoria-Chicago airmail route.

Meanwhile Col. Lindbergh's plane, assigned for the flight, one of the regular airmail monoplanes, and five others were at Lambert-St. Louis field ready to take on their cargoes. Postal men estimated the number of letters consigned to the flight would run close to 200,000.

The flight was scheduled to start at the regular airmail time 4:45 p. m., it was expected the plane would reach Chicago at 7:30 p. m. after stopping at Springfield and Peoria, Ill., to discharge and load cargoes of souvenir letters and regular mail.

HELD ON COMPLAINT OF FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Joseph Lanza of Harvard st., Dorchester, was held in $500 for hearing Saturday when he was arraigned in Brighton Court today charged with attempted larceny of $250 from the First National Bank, Lanza, who pleaded not guilty, was arrested in Pittsburg after a trap had been set by police and detectives for the author of a letter sent to the bank requesting a cash withdrawal on the taxes of a deposited check discovered to be worthless.

FOOD PRICES IN HUB TAKE DROP

Boston householders' meat and grocery bills slid down three per cent during January, the Department of Labor announced at Washington today.

The Hub reduction was the largest of any city in the country. The average decrease in food prices for the nation was one-half of one per cent. This made a decrease of more than two and one-half per cent since January, 1927, but lest you become too happy, the prices are still 53 per cent above those of January, 1913.

Food prices decreased in the following eastern cities during last January: Fall River, New Haven, New York and Portland, Me., 2 per cent; Bridgeport, Manchester, N. H., and Providence, 1 per cent.

DEFENSE IS OPENED IN BRICKLEY THEFT CASE

Atty. John H. O'Neil, counsel for Charles E. Brickley, on trial in Superior Criminal Court for larceny and bucketing, in his opening today declared that his client had done nothing wrong. He said that under the agreement Brickley had the right to sell securities which the complainants had deposited with him, and that he never received specific orders to buy and sell.

Mrs. Anna Lane, telephone operator in Brickley's office, said that at no time did any of the complainants give orders to buy or sell stocks. James Hesdon, who said he had been a broker for 26 or 27 years, told of conversations with some of the complainants, none of whom ever said that they gave specific orders to Brickley to buy or sell stocks.

Carrigan Hopeful Bill Likes Sox Kids Feels Natural, Too

Seats at Fights N. Y. System Good Hogan and Hornsby

By NICK FLATLEY

SOX MANAGER OPTIMISTIC ON DEPARTURE

BILL CARRIGAN, steering his Red Sox out of Boston today, had some things to say that indicate William is in an optimistic mood. Usually the pilot from Lewiston is busy making the Sphinx sound like a radio broadcaster, but he did cut loose with a few pertinent thoughts ere he stepped on the train.

Nick Flatley

"I feel natural going away this year," Bill admitted. "Last spring I was a bit out in left field, as the boys put it. I had been away from baseball too long to be sure of myself or any of the players I had

"That all worked away during the summer. Seems now that I have never been away from the game at all. I know the players I have and what the new kids are supposed to do, and that's a big start on the opening a year ago.

"It seemed to me that the modern players didn't take the interest in baseball that the old boys did, as a whole. I had a few kids who hustled so much they hurt their own game. They tried too hard. But they are back. A bird who makes mistakes because he's fighting to come through has a chance any old time

"I let a lot of players go this winter, for various reasons, and I'm sure the crowd that's left are fighters and hustlers, all with a real chance of making good with a bang. The kids have worked off their nervousness and the experienced players have caught the hustle habit.

The 1928 Red Sox should be a much better team than the last one. They can't win any pennant, perhaps, but they will be able to cause a lot of trouble. Getting out of last place will be our first job. A good start can accomplish that. Then we'll begin shooting for higher things.

"Seems like old times to have a bunch of the fans going along. Shows that the boys have the spirit again, as well as the ball club. I never predicted in my life and this is no time to start. But I will admit that I'm an optimist this year, while I was inclined to be the other way when we pulled out last February."

As Bill thinks, so does Boston. Spring news will be perused with unusual eagerness this year.

MAJOR CAMPBELL COULDN'T HANG CLOSE TO SOME OF THE BOYS WHO STEP ON THE GAS WHIZZING DOWN TREMONT STREET

COUPON FOR SEAT SHOULD MEAN THAT SEAT

OUR esteemed friend, Mister Boston, took a crack at a real evil when recently he emitted a roar about the way some of the ushers toss [illegible] at our ring fights. There have been complaints here for years but nothing ever has been done.

The fans have to run a gauntlet of arriving cops and have a fight up two on the side—for their seats—while even the preliminaries [illegible]. Mister B. has started a reform. The Arcanum Club has decided to put on a flock of new ushers. They will keep for a while, until the young men get used to the job. Then they will become jugglers for the seat of friends, or small sections of chairs shipped their way by bar[illegible]

Here in New York the perfect system has been established, because erring ushers in Madison Square Garden, what is known as the bum's rush, are also fired without pay and helped toward the outer world by a series of kicks put [illegible] administered by the chief all do the most good.

This of course is unethical and we would never dream of suggesting it. He just recalls however that in the big alleys the boy with a check for a certain seat gets that seat. The ushers don't dare to pack the front rows.

YOUNG MISTER HOGAN OF SOMERVILLE IS GETTING AS MUCH SPRING ADVERTISING AS HARRY RUTH. HERE'S HOPING HE DOESN'T WALLOP THE GOTHAM BOYS EXPECT TOO MUCH OF THE CAPABLE YOUTH

HOGAN AND HORNSBY CHATTER DIES DOWN

JOHN McGRAW refuses to have anything to say regarding the Hornsby deal, except to declare that he thinks he has the best of it. Which makes the cynical New Yorkers smile. Rogers states that he knows nothing about it, and that he is just going to play ball for the Braves.

The Braves are satisfied that the great second baseman will make their ball club. So they're happy. Everybody seems to be content, and no chatter about one of the most surprising modern deals will die down, not to be resumed until the athletes concerned startle the world by brilliant playing or flop one way or another.

The Giants well fortified with stars, have two of the most promising youngsters in the league. McGraw has been yelling for kid players. The Braves have acquired finally the real star with the big sock they have been moaning like mush for for years.

Very few sensational swaps apparently suit both parties so completely.

THE golf season of 1928 promises to be one of the most interesting of recent years. A visit of a Walker Cup team from Great Britain is always a tremendous stimulus to amateur activities. "Jerry" by ELENORE MEHERIN AUTHOR of "CHICKIE"

A Story of Mad Moonlight Kisses and a Wonderful Young Girl

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

Jerry Kane, good looking, charming, and in search of romance, decides a vacation in Boston and Scott, and falls in love with him at first sight. Meeting her benefactor rather, Anne, her thoughtful friend, Scott, the object of Jerry's affections. Although Jerry sees Scott kiss Ted Wilson, who has a great deal of money [illegible] and refuses to marry [illegible] Hunter Rand, a young artist. The friendship between Scott and Jerry grows and he confesses that he is deeply in love with her. Late one night he comes into her office and begs her to marry him, but she refuses. Jerry finally tells him that she will not be forever [illegible] Paris. At last he gets the open letter from Ted, but Jerry tears it up. Later Scott gets out five pearls she has received after weeks of [illegible] and recognizes the stone as one she had given Jerry. "The Congressman's Son"—A Bitter-Sweet Romance

Prominent club women throughout the land have taken up the cause of Congressman Frisby's cast-aside bride. The two ladies above are seen with a huge bouquet of lilacs, which they will present to the little woman as soon as they can run her down.

Chapter XII

WHAT discouraged mother more than anything else was Congressman Frisby's attitude. He had tricked her. And yet, when they met at any social gathering he would assume a highly respectable manner and treat her as though she had done him some great wrong.

Irving was always willing and eager to shoot a kiss, or pinch her cheek, when no one was looking. But in public, if mother so much as put her arm around him, he would blush and scold and even strike or kick her.

Then, if a crowd collected, he would protest, in a hurt tone, that the woman was a stranger and was annoying him.

After this happened nine or nine or ten times, mother decided she would cure him of that habit. She had read an advertisement offering what is known as "bee-chee" powder, for sale by mail. She immediately ordered 10 cents worth. Then she waited. A week passed. Then a month. Finally a year went by. Two years. Three years. And yet no "Bee-Chee" powder.

Finally—

WESLEY YATES AGAIN

(Laurel, Miss., Democrat)

Night Officer Gallaher arrested Charlie Holeman a few nights ago for intoxication. But the city complex was still in its infancy place to leave a prisoner, so a count of Wesley Yates' jail-break so the officer moved your Charlie home. He says Charlie is becoming something of a problem. He is almost periodically drunk. He don't do orders or boisterous when he is sobered up-but he is often in a shifty intoxicated state.

Say what you will, Golddiggers are admired looking.

The Hon. Mr. Wiley says:

"Better a woman with a past than a past with a woman."

"A kick in the punch bowl is worth two in the pants."

WHAT DO YOU MAKE OF THIS, WATSON?

(From New Statesman, London)

"The book . . . is a good enough, perhaps, for the American schoolboy, but by no means good enough for the English schoolboy."

Thanks to the missionaries, nine out of ten South Sea Island women are wearing Mother Hubbards.

The real test will come, however, when the missionaries try to make their own 18-year-old daughters put on more clothes.

THE SAYINGS OF MRS. SOLOMON

By HELEN ROWLAND

MY son, there is a time to marry—and a time to beware of marriage.

A time to love—and a time to weep for it!

Verily, 50 men need dwell in fear of women, when all his thoughts are upon his work, all his dreams of his ambitions, and all his heart wrapped up in BUSINESS. For a man that laboreth feverishly from dawn until night, hath not a thought nor an emotion left for any woman.

But when the moment of idleness cometh; when he seeketh rest and diversion, when time hangeth heavily upon his hands and he is filled with ennui, then let him take heed. For his foot is upon the quicksands of love.

When he suffereth from cheap merriment and his heart is bruised, when he is lonely and filled with bitterness or grief, let him close his eyes and pray for strength. For he shall NEED it!

When he hath quarreled with the woman of the moment; when his vanity hath received a blow; when he is filled with gladdening and wisheth to "forget it all," let him gird up his loins against temptation. For then is he in a fathom that feeleth straitest for the telegraph pole—and no amount of shouting can stop him!

What Doctors Think of the Laxative Habit

In all history, no Indian was ever known to have constipation. Nor need YOU. He chewed the bark of a tree called cascara. Today, we have the candy cascaret.

Cascarizing the bowels never forms a laxative habit. If already formed, an occasional cascaret will usually break the habit. For cascara strengthens the muscular walls of the bowels, and their need of any aid at all grows constantly less. What other cathartic has this characteristic? The writer knows of none.

An evacuation brought gently about by cascara will, nine times in ten, be followed by full functioning of the bowels on the morrow—and for days after. For there is no REACTION as with sickening salts, or any of the man-made purgatives that go through one's system like a bullet.

Physicians tell us cascara is the ideal laxative—and the tongue tells us candy cascarets are its ideal form. At least a million people know this; what a pity there are any who don't! Especially parents, because children love to take a cascaret. After which, for days on end, the bowels will be seen to work of their own accord.

The only habit from cascara is that of regularity! Cascarets tone and train the bowels. But at the first sign of returning sluggishness another cascaret is as effective as the first.

There isn't a druggist who hasn't cascarets, on WHY experiment with laxatives?

Healthy, ambitious men limit their profits. Improved shape, bright eyes, clear complexion and abundant vitality denote a system free from impurities. Constipation poisons the whole system, slows the step, saps energy, destroys confidence and eats down the earning power.

Rid your system of constipation and its poisons. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets remove these poisons and tone up the system, clear the eyes and complexion and bring back normal vigor. A compound of vegetable ingredients, prescribed by patients for 20 years in place of calomel. They act easily and quickly on bowels and liver.

Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets and keep fit for the daily grind. Thousands of happy men and women use them regularly as an aid to success in their everyday tasks. Know them by their olive color, 15c, 30c, 60c.

STAGE AND SCREEN

AL JOLSON IN VITAPHONE IS BIG HIT

By LEO GAFFNEY

With Vitaphone and "The Jazz Singer," at the Modern and Beacon, Al Jolson does his bit for art and scientific entertainment. "The Jazz Singer" is a talking, singing, dancing, sentimental drama. It's considerably less than $4 and you may see and hear "the world's greatest entertainer" — or rather, his audible shadow chirping his songs, asking for "Mammy" and going through all the acrobatic motions that have enthroned him in the hearts of the millions who go to the theater to be amused.

Al Jolson

He is the same irrepressible clown you have seen in those gay, glittering, girl-laden theatricalities (neither musical comedy nor revue), in which he is inevitably the "whole show."

As on the stage, so on the screen. It is a Jolsonian entertainment, and no one forget it. In spite of the contributing talents of a capable supporting cast, the light and shadow are on the star. In spite of the lachrymose story of Jakie Rabinowitz, the boy who pitches for a "big league chance" on the stage to fill his expiring sire's place in the synagogue, in spite of copious tears in the audience, in spite of sad and solemn subtitles—in spite of everything—"The Jazz Singer's" most doleful moment cannot overcome Jolson the buffoon.

When the merry minstrel sings a jazz song—and he sings plenty—in the photoplay—the excitement does not quickly die down. He has a faculty of taking an audience by the ears and shaking it into a frenzy of delight for more and more songs. In "The Jazz Singer" the sad moments are too often follow a tuneful "wow finish." At times even this star is not good enough an actor—being too good a clown—to get them "over."

"The Jazz Singer" must have presented its own problems to Alan Crosland, who directed. The many musical selections unavoidably slow down the film's progress. Likewise the nature of the story, as Warner Brothers saw fit to treat it, calls for captions of great wordiness and much sentiment. All this handicaps one who is used to telling a story with the camera. Under the circumstances Mr. Crosland has dealt with his production skillfully, wisely and well.

The cast includes May McAvoy, Warner Oland and many other worthy assistants, but no matter who they are, no one may get on the same platform with that blithe spirit, Jolson, the joy boy.

Fighter's Lass

BARTHELMESS IN NEW ROLE

For years Richard Barthelmess has had nothing better in the films than a succession of cardboard roulins. He redeems everything with "The Patent Leather Kid," now at the two Olympia, Fenway, Capitol and Central Square theaters.

At last this really excellent player has something fit for his talents. The picture is magnificent, Rupert Hughes gave it story—one of his very best—First National produced it on the proper scale, and Al Santell, a director who has been saving mediocre films from utter inanity, has made of "The Patent Leather Kid" one of the best photoplays on record. They have been saying two dollars for it in New York.

The motion picture industry during the past few seasons has sought for perfection in every possible angle. While "The Patent Leather Kid" does not go in some serial fire-eating, still it does not pretend to compete with the more brittle photoplays of the day. Instead, it spends its time with the climaxes, for the film itself who is a well-heeled boy terror in the prize ring, but a snivelling coward in the "big show."

The superb characterization Barthelmess gives this gum-chewing, cigarette smoking, hard-boiled youth as a memorable contribution to screen art. Not only does he make Jerry as a "hero" of the Kid, but he is far more interesting before this supposedly necessary reformation. Because of the catastrophe, the star, while coward loses his head, runs away and starts another career for himself. Any old film hero can do this. It takes an actor to do the other thing.

Barthelmess is back where he belongs. Give him a human story, suitable direction and he will run away with the show. He did it with "Tol'able David" and "Broken Blossoms." He's done it again.

REISMAN JAZZ PLEASES BIG AUDIENCE

By MOSES SMITH

There was music of many tastes on the program that Leo Reisman and his band presented last night at their first concert a Symphony Hall last night. This fact ma, have partially accounted for the size of the audience which fille the hall. And many must have been drawn because of the popularity of the local orchestra leader, who has worked with the sincerity of an artist to make his dance music musical.

The program was to say the least, eclectic. Of peckne Interest was the Intermezzo "Clowns," a new piece written especially for this concert by Charles Martin Loeffler. Loeffler's position among serious American composers gave rise to anticipations as to the worth of his suite for jazz orchestra.

There were two suites by Ferdie Grofe, one of which "Three Shades of Blue" was heard for the first time in Boston. As we remember it Ruhe Bloom's "Soliloquy" for piano and jazz orchestra, with the composer at the piano. The miscellany was well selected.

NOT THRILLED

We were, then, listening to the best that jazz of the present day had to offer. Yet, despite Reisman's undoubtedly efforts, we were not thrilled. Though we may be shot at sunrise for writing it, we preferred the Intermezzo of Loeffler's with a "Rhapsody in Blue," to anything on the program.

Whether "serious" jazz composers can produce more than this one notable contribution of Gershwin we do not pretend to say. This latest program we found essentially monotonous. Of what avail the brilliance in scoring, the occasional stirring rhythmic effects, if the musical ideas are so thin? Even the soloist seemed to have lost his tongue in trying to speak a strange language. He began his solos promisingly enough, and ended it with some dignity. But for real power, But in between was nought but sentimental drivel. Or was Mr. Leeb's trumpet to blame? We know, write with his tongue in his cheek?

OTHER CONCERTS

There were other interesting performers in a week-end crowded with concerts. The most notable, in a way, was Lucrezia Bori, soprano of Metropolitan, a young pianist from New York, Ralph Leopold, who played Schumann's F-sharp minor sonata and shorter pieces by Rossini, Liszt, Scriabine, Debussy, Ravel, Rosenthal and Delibes. The rather unusual combination and maturity of artistry displayed in the performance of the sonata, to say nothing of executive ability, made the young man's shorter numbers Miss Hamilton was mistress of many styles.

Marie Sundelius, leading soprano with the Metropolitan Opera Company, made her first appearance here at her only appearance of the season in crowded Symphony Hall. The fine quality of her voice in recital does not concern Mme. Jeritza greatly, even though she has the interpretative gifts to make up for it. But the listener (and onlooker) is as much interested in posing and seeing a "personality," and in the case of the dramatic power which Jeritza gives especially in operatic arias is her varied excellences.

'SILK LEGS' AT NEW BOSTON

"Silk Legs" at the Keith-Albee Boston is an engaging trifle you may be sure, with due regard for the basic 1 endomenia of Madge Bellamy. In the film, this comely player sells hosiery "on the road." Of course it is to be expected that the fetching salesw oman should also be a model for her wares. And of course you should not be kept in the dark any longer than is necessary concerning this point—she is!

Madge Bellamy

Her leading man in this instance is James Hall, seen as a rival salesman, who meets the fair go-getter at Atlantic City (that's where Madge sells her bathing suit) and proceeds to cultivate the acquaintance.

Although Mr. Hall, in character, is not the kind of chap who might say, "Ain't I seen you somewhere before?" when introduced to a lady, yet he does make the mistake of being too strong for the "cultivation."

The result: Lady steals his best customer, together with his heart. There is another fashion show. Madge wins decision over all other women, displaying greater form as you might say. Rival concerns consolidate. Ditto boy and girl. Fadeout. Vaudeville.

STUART MASON LEADS PEOPLE'S IN CONCERT

Stuart Mason was the guest conductor of the thirteenth concert of the People's Symphony Orchestra at Jordan Hall. A large audience listened appreciatively to the program which included several rarely heard works.

Pauline Danforth was soloist in Liszt's piano concerto in E-flat. The compositions of two American composers were featured, Chadwick's "Angel of Death" and a "Legend" for orchestra by Howard R. Thatcher, the latter being given its first Boston performance. Enesco's second Rumanian rhapsody and a suite of airs from Rameau's "Hippolyte et Aricie" were also relatively unfamiliar.

Berlioz' "Roman Carnaval" overture offered a pleasing finale.

Lessons in Magic by Hardeen the Great

Magic, oldest of the arts, has been developed until it today offers the most startling form of amusement. Hardeen, appearing at the Keith-Albee Boston Theater this week, has arranged a series of articles on magic for Boston Evening American readers, explaining how many tricks may be done by amateurs. This is the first article of the series.

By HARDEEN

Magic, to be successful for public presentation, must have its share of humor. Special tricks are designed for this purpose. And one of the most outstanding is that of producing a lighted candle from your pocket.

The humor of this trick comes from attempting to light an object that stubbornly refuses to ignite. The magician then makes a show of producing about an inch of the wick from the end to be ignited, and carefully inserts a wax match in the place formerly occupied by the wick.

HERE'S HOW IT LIGHTS

Next, sew a strip or emery cloth or sandpaper in the pocket under which you wish to produce the lighted candle. Then place the prepared candle in the pocket, first removing the head of the match and rubbing against the emery cloth or the sandpaper.

When you wish to produce the lighted candle all you have to do is to thrust your hand into pocket, while taking out the candle, run the match head against the emery cloth to manufacture friction, igniting the match, and so producing a lighted candle.

Simple as this trick may seem it has been used successfully on the stage for many years. The art of presentation becomes highly necessary to lend mystery to the trick. Perhaps the best way is to offer it as something. When the object you wish to light refuses to ignite, your cue is to show surprise.

TRICK CAN BE REPEATED

This also is easy to accomplish, but takes practice. The pantomime is often worked out with a cigar. The cigar apparently takes on a glow and the magician believes it lit. But quickly finds that the fire has gone out. His views the cigar and, with surprise, reaches into other pockets until all his supply is exhausted. The humor becomes more forceful as the trick continues and as one lighted candle follows another.

LEGINSKA AND WOMEN'S ORCHESTRA IN CONCERT

The Boston Women's Symphony Orchestra, led by Ethel Leginska, made its second appearance this season at the Repertory Theater last night before a large audience.

A Bach prelude and fugue arranged by Mabel Wood Hill and ended with a Wagner overture to "The Flying Dutchman" featured the conductor's own Bach-Leginska Rhymes for soprano and small orchestra. In the latter Esther Lundy Newcombe was soloist.

Cropping

A Brutal Practice

The "dog" bills introduced in the Legislature by Representative Crosby of Brookline will have the support of the real friends of the dog.

The Crosby bills are two in number, the first prohibiting cropping the ears of dogs, and the possession or ownership of dogs whose ears have been so mutilated, and the second prohibiting the EXHIBITION of these dogs.

Practically every Boston terrier, bull terrier, Great Dane, toy terrier and Doberman Pinscher shown in the dog shows of America has its ears cropped. Because it is done for "show" purposes, ALL dogs of these breeds are cropped to comply with the "fashion."

Trimming the ears of dogs is painful and barbarous—as well as unnecessary.

The dog is prepared for the cropping operation just as is a human patient. Either cocaine or ether is administered. The ears are cut. Then they are sewed up and placed in aluminum forms. Adhesive tape is applied, to hold them upright. A little salve is placed on the raw edges and the dog is left to wait until the wound is healed.

In about two weeks, the forms are removed. If the ears now stand erect, all well and good.

The "proper" age to trim ears is the most vital age of the pup, about 6 months, when nine dogs out of ten are already devitalized by intestinal parasites. They are going through the teething period, too, and they are being handled by strangers in strange quarters. Every day the sore ears must be "stretched." The patient frets, worries, refuses to eat, shrinks from the men around him and loses flesh.

The Crosby bills have been referred to the Committee on Legal Affairs, the chairmen of which are Senator Edward T. Simoneau and Representative Maynard E. S. Clemons.

We respectfully offer for the consideration of the Committee the testimony of Dr. J. C. Flynn, who, urging the members of his profession to join in the fight against cropping, wrote recently in the "North American Veterinarian":

"Whenever I trimmed a pair of ears and looked at the poor shrinking, mutilated dog and eared at him look at me with fear and trembling every time he was brought in the room for treatment each day for the following two or three weeks, and saw him grow thin and weak from pain and suffering, and in after weeks when brought to me for other treatment saw him refuse to enter my hospital and shrink from me when I attempted to handle him, I felt pretty small as I realized that I DID NOT DESERVE THE CONFIDENCE OF A DOG."

It is difficult to believe that in a civilized country a practice so cruel and barbarous is not only condoned but in one branch of "sport" is made compulsory.

Opponent of the Crosby bills will come from the ranks of those who make money from the practice or who breed for profit the dogs which are so trimmed for show purposes.

It might be fair to ask these gentlemen how they would like to have THEIR ears cut from the base to the top?

Flight to Australia

Important to White Race Survival

Very important to white race supremacy and survival is the plan of Captain Frederick A. Giles, British, to fly to Honolulu from San Francisco as the first leg of a flight to New Zealand.

Today a handful of white people, inhabiting gigantic Australia and New Zealand, live under the shadow of Asia, and their great stretches of unused land tempt the Asiatics.

But, once the flying machines of Britain and America establish air lines to the big island continent underneath the world, all danger from Asia will cease.

Domination of the world will go to the best fliers. And the best fliers will be produced by the scientific white races, let us hope, for the sake of our own survival.

COMIC STRIPS HAVE 'ESCAPE VALUE'

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A RECENT article on "The Compensatory Function of the Funny Paper," by Harvey C. Lehman and Paul A. Witty, is at hand.

It gives a very ingenious explanation for the popularity of the comic strip. It gives as a trait of character in almost everyone the desire to "escape."

"In the world of actuality," it continues, "the child is obliged to conform to certain conventions, to treat other persons with a reasonable amount of decorum, to abide by the consequences of his acts when he defies natural law or human authority. In the 'funnies' he will defy every law and he will do so with immunity.

"Thus the child who looks at the 'funnies' is enabled to identify himself with the most intrepid adventurer or the most resolute law-defying citizen or the capturer of such a criminal. On the other hand, he may identify himself with the serial-motion-picture type of hero who wins out over apparently insuperable odds."

All of us are aware of constant limitations in our ordinary life. We are unable to thwart these constrictions, so we seek numerous and varied forms of gratification of our impulses.

Certainly the comic strip does not excel in showing actual life conditions. It only suggests human characteristics in exaggerated form, but they are naively presented and so direct and unmistakable that even the most obtuse cannot fail to recognize them.

The pamphlet says that in the comic strips the child often takes many risks which in real life he would not think of taking.

"In some cases he succeeds by resort to magic. At other times he is pictured as falling squarely upon the face or being severely burned with fire or scalding water. He falls at a great distance or he is closely pursued by dangerous wild animals. He knows no decorum. He puts his cigar ashes into an upturned silk hat, or into the gold-fish bowl. He rests his feet on his neighbor's lap.

"He endures no suppression. He has complete freedom of self-expression."

This is at least an ingenious explanation of the popularity of the comic strip, as the value of any entertainment, theatrical or otherwise, is its escape value.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—Diary of a modern Peppy: Lay late in a languor and came a fellow celebrating his birthday and so foxed with liquor he alternately sobbed and laughed. Nor could I get rid of him and he slept until nightfall on a couch, snoring lustily and departing sheepishly.

So to a gathering where arose a discussion writers cannot become rich albeit it seems to me Rex Beach, George Ade, Rupert Hughes, Kathleen Norris, Edna Ferber and others too numerous to mention do fairly well. This day I articled to buy petrol cart.

In the evening to dinner with my wife and among those at different tables were John Willys, the auto merchant, Gloria Swanson and the heir to the duchy of Argyle. Late to bed.

MAGAZINES used to be conducted entirely by crusty gentlemen well up in years. Editorial judgment was believed to be the fruit of ripe experience. Twenty-five years ago there were no magazine editors under fifty, and the majority were in their sixties.

Today youth is in the saddle and riding hard. Otis Wiese at twenty-two is editor-in-chief of McCall's. H. N. Swanson, not yet thirty, is editorial director of College Humor. With one or two exceptions editors of important magazines are under fifty. Three magazines in the past year have been launched by men in their twenties.

Publishers claim that with youth at the helm magazines become more pliable and new talent has a better chance. And perhaps they recall Alexander, Napoleon, Shelley and some of the younger boys.

THIS is the story of the long shot that won and proved to a philandering husband, at least, there is still a good sport or so in the world. He arrived home at 4 a. m., a little pie-eyed to find his wife in tears. She insisted upon knowing where he had been. You may know how it is.

He concocted a dandy story of having been with a well-known man. She was doubtful and determined to learn the truth by calling the man at his home. "Either you call him and verify your story or I shall," she delivered in a voice as cold as a pawnbroker's heart.

He played the long shot and called the number of the man he knew only by reputation. A sleepy voice answered, "Sorry to trouble you," began the husband, "but I arrived home so late after my evening with you that my wife doesn't believe a word I say."

"Put her on the telephone," said the voice while the husband's knees imitated castanets. She took up the receiver. He said: "I am sorry, Madam, to have kept your husband so late, but we discussed so many interesting things the time flew. It will never happen again. Let me speak to your husband." And a soft voice warned: "See that it never happens again."

IT IS estimated 10,000 men and women in the so-called Tenderloin depend upon "outguessing the police" for a livelihood. They are the prey of bandbooks—living on the fat of the land today and crumbs tomorrow, but never losing faith. In cafes at dusk they bend over the racing forms, studying the past performances and their chatter seems the pale voice of an impossible hope. Very few ever turn from the uneven chances. Most of them have drifted from paying jobs to indulge the leisure of morning sleeping and late hours. They live in a false world of high excitement but little profit, and with this they are content.

NEW YORK'S Alimony Club has deserted the old Ludlow street jail and is now in a newly outfitted police station that was abandoned. Members of the Alimony Club are not considered or treated like prisoners. They are chiefly men of means who prefer prison for a period to escape the perpetual grin of alimony.

Talking a Mile—

Around the World Seven Times in One Second

The telephone company has produced a loud speaker that can be heard distinctly at a distance of one mile. Interesting, although radio makes it unnecessary.

A Greek philosopher said no nation could keep its liberty after it grew so big that all the citizens could no longer listen to the same speaker in the public square at the same time. The daily newspaper helped solve THAT problem.

Soon radio will make it possible for everybody on earth to hear the same speaker literally at the same second—electricity travels around the earth seven times in a second. Therefore, it will be possible some day for the entire earth to be one nation. And that's what is going to happen, perhaps five hundred thousand, perhaps five million years hence.

Eyes

What a Boon Third Would Be

Bones, ten million years old, dug from an English quarry, reveal that the plesiosaurus had three eyes, one on the top of its head.

It demonstrates the prodigality of nature, or the fallacy of evolution, or something.

A plesiosaurus, with three eyes, lived in a Cambrian fen where there was nothing worth seeing.

Man, the alleged acme of evolution, is limited to two eyes in an era of speeding motorists, revues, movies, modernistic art and one-piece bathing ensembles.

And with Colonel Lindbergh and his fellow birdmen girdling the globe, mankind could use an eye on top of the head. It would keep the palate from getting sun-burned.
